MOVE TO CAP MED COLLEGE FEES WILL BENEFIT POOR: PM

The Centre recently said 50% seats in private medical colleges will be charged at par with government colleges

APPLICABLE TO GOVT QUOTA SEATS

"A few days back, the government has taken another big decision, which will benefit the poor and middle class children," Modi said, referring to the decision. The new fee structure will be applicable to those who have secured admission under the government quota. If the government quota is less than 50%, it will be offered to students on the basis of merit

EFFECTIVE FROM NEXT ACADEMIC YEAR

- The new fees structure will come into effect from the next academic session, the National Medical Commission said
- The announcement comes as the conflict in Ukraine has put a spotlight on Indians flying abroad for medical studies, unable to bear the high cost of medical education in India

Modi calls for direct talks between Putin, Zelenskyy

Urges the two leaders to urgently provide safe passage to Indians

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

WITH time running out for the Indian students still stranded in Sumy, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday called up the leaders of both Russia and Ukraine, seeking their support for their urgent evacuation. He urged the two warring presidents to pick the phone and talk to each other so that a humanitarian corridor can be set up to bring civilians out of conflict zones safely.

Putin assured Modi that his troops are doing everything possible to evacuate the stranded Indians. The conversation, which lasted about 50 minutes, was Modi's third with Putin since the conflict began.

Ukrainian leader Volodymyr Zelenskyy informed Modi of the ground situation and the difficulites his troops are facing due to incessant shelling.

Meanwhile, India's efforts to safely evacuate the students from Sumy was dealt a blow on Monday with Kyiv rejecting Moscow's proposal to provide escape routes for civilians from Sumy and other Ukrainian cities, as these routes go through Russia and Belarus.

Oil prices touch $139

Oil prices hit a record high on Monday as the US said it was weighing an embargo on crude from Russian. The benchmark Brent North Sea crude oil soared to a near 14-year high of $139.13 before cooling to $121.54

Kyiv rejects safe corridor

Russia announced a ceasefire in several areas from Monday to allow civilians to leave the conflict zones. Meanwhile, many trying to flee Mariupol through humanitarian corridors were stranded as the route was bombed

Third round of talks

Russian and Ukrainian officials sat down on Monday night for a third round of talks on the conflict at the Belarus-Poland border. Among other things, the talks will focus on creating a humanitarian corridor for civilians

Civilian toll hits 406

At least 406 civilians have been killed since the beginning of the Russian invasion, according to the UN human rights office. It said that another 801 injured civilians had been confirmed as of midnight Sunday

"The humanitarian corridors out of Kyiv, Kharkiv, Mariupol and Sumy — that lead to Russia and Belarus are immoral'," Ukraine's deputy PM Iryna Vereshchuk said.

India was considering evacuating the students via Russia, whose border is just 60 km away from Sumy. Russia had agreed to send 103 buses to its border to pick up Indians and drop them at airports.

India is continuing to evacuate its citizens from Ukraine's neighbouring countries. On Monday, 1,314 people were airlifted by seven flights, the civil aviation ministry said.

According to the UN, 1.7 million have fled Ukraine since the conflict began. P9, 11, 12

WOMEN'S DAY: Sushma got a job in BMRCL when Metro hadn't started in the city, while Rashmi is a B.Tech who is now a Deputy Commandant in CISF

She draws the fine lines of Metro stns

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

ARCHITECT Sushma G has spent all her working life at Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL). Having joined in 2008 as a Junior Engineer, she is the today Manager, Planning and Design. She has grown with BMRCL and moved from designing Metro's Phase-I stations to Phase-II stations.

"I take the Metro from my home at Baiyappanahalli to MG Road, and then take a cab to Shanti Nagar. It fills me with such pride that I am seeing what I drew on a daily basis," the architect told TNIE.

The Bengalurean completed her B.Arch at UVCE. "Metro had not started in the city then, and was only being spoken about. I applied and got in, and there was no looking back. BMRCL is such a woman-friendly workplace. Just the number of woman train operators we have is self-explanatory," she states.

Sushma's job often involves site visits which are male-dominated, with civil contractors and workers. Detailing the work she has done, Sushma says, "Each Metro station is aesthetically pleasing. I remember when we started, we had Delhi Metro as the standard. It had Overhead Equipment technology for supplying power to the trains, and we decided on having a Third Rail which would supply power. Without anything hanging above as in the case of railway stations, Bengaluru Metro looks very pleasing." Whether underground or elevated, each is a signature station, Sushma explains.

The challenge in the job is when trouble erupts during execution. "Some utility would come in the way, and we need to get back to the drawing board and rework all over again," she says.

What are the day-to-day challenges? "I think when a man points out a mistake or flaw in anyone's work, be it a junior or senior, it is taken much more seriously than when a woman does it. A woman needs to prove repeatedly that she knows the job and has to earn her place, " the architect explains.

Her husband Shivashankar, whom she describes as "extremely supportive", works as a Public Relations Officer at Red Cross Society.

A mother supervises security at KIA

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A high pressure job of supervising the security at the terminal of the Kempegowda International airport (KIA) is handled by 34-year-old Rashmi Bedwal. This Deputy Commandant of the Central Industrial Security Force, also the mother of a little girl, is the only one in Karnataka and one of the few women in the country holding the post.

Hailing from Uttarakhand, Bedwal is a B.Tech graduate in Biotechnology from the Meerut Institute of Engineering and Technology. "After clearing my CAPF Assitant Commandant exams in 2013, I began my career at the Mumbai International Airport. There was enormous resistance from my relatives who felt it was a male-dominated field. However, I decided to take the plunge," she said. Her mother, Nirmala, is a homemaker and her father, MS Bedwal, a PWD engineer, backed her, she added.

In her batch, she was the only woman. Bedwal met her husband, Anuranjan Kumar Anuj, also a Deputy Commandant at KIA now, during her training at the National Industrial Security Academy at Hyderabad. After completed 4.5 years at Mumbai airport, she was posted at Bengaluru.

Now, she heads around 300 women in the rank of constables, Sub-Inspectors and Inspectors. "At CISF, women are completely accepted into the fold. I have never faced any discrimination in my career and in fact, it is a very encouraging environment," she said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

08th March : More about Sagittarius, one of my signs of the week. One feature of this fiery sign is its love of travel. But, while Sagittarians can be physical explorers, they also experience journeys of the mind and soul. This is why Sagittarius is often the sign best suited to wise people, to gurus, sages and teachers.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
The day is marked by significant planetary aspects, most of them urging you to be a good Arien and work hard. Look upon this as a period to lay foundations and prepare the groundwork for future achievements. You may also have to speak your mind, but please be tactful!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
You can expect social invitations to improve now that the planets are aligned with regions of your horoscope that are all about love, pleasure, leisure and friendship. You may even have difficulty keeping up! But there'll also be moments when you're setting the pace without even knowing it!

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You're not feeling up to scratch, but you're not unusual in that. The reason may lie in whatever you were doing over recent months. Did you wear yourself out emotionally? Why not follow a sensible regime of whatever diet or form of exercise suits you, and keep your mind active at the same time.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Even usually harmless ideas could have added intensity today. While it might be wise to reach a decision sooner rather than later, there still seems to be little you can do to avoid delays. This is good if it releases you from the obligation to bow to current pressure.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
A useful discussion will soon shed new light on an old problem. However, you may still have certain queries and questions concerning your long-term security. Much depends on how far you truly value yourself. Perhaps, surprisingly, there is plenty of scope for increasing your self-confidence.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You're blessed with the spark of creative imagination at the moment, so don't let anyone put you down as dull, unimaginative or boring. The plain fact is that you have more going for you than anyone else. All you have to do is get your act together - because nobody else will do it for you!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Today's lunar alignments should enable you to see your situation more clearly, compensating for the generally befuddling effect of a bunch of planets unhelpfully aligned with mysterious and muddled regions of your chart. You can take it!

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
During the past few months you seem to have been involved in challenges or upheavals you could not have foreseen. However, as from now, the planets are beginning the long march towards favourable regions of your chart, culminating in a wave of opportunity in about eight weeks' time.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The more you pull in one direction, the more somebody, or something, will pull in the other. This is an inevitable consequence of the Moon's position in a part of your horoscope known to cause splits, differences and irreconcilable contradictions!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Although this is bound to be a day of routine in many respects, it doesn't mean that you should be stuck in a rut. Far from it! It's a less obvious part of your astrological personality to be able to get the most out of even the least promising situations.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
The Moon's north node, a little known point, is still traversing important sectors of your chart, seeing to it that, whatever the daily ups and downs you experience, you are still very much on the right path. Just keep a close watch on your finances, that's all!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Mars is swooping through important emotional sectors of your solar chart. This is why all current discussions, debates and considerations will affect your comfort and security for many months, if not years, to come. You need to strike a very fine balance between reasonable impatience and unreasonable recklessness.

TWO YEARS OF COVID: WITH EACH WAVE, STATE PREPARED BETTER

Experts suggest improvement in areas to remain alert to pandemic signals in future

NIRAD MUDUR, CHETANA BELAGERE & RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

KARNATAKA on Tuesday marks the second anniversary of the pandemic hitting the state. On March 8, 2020, a 40-year-old techie who returned to Bengaluru from the US, was the first person in Karnataka to test Covid-19 positive. Since then, a total of 39,42,730 got infected by different variants of the SARS-CoV-2 virus, claiming 39,996 lives in the state.

The two years were endured by the people of this generation through unprecedented misery even as the state's health machinery creaked and whined with the increasing burden of the pandemic across the state.

Hospitals saw acute shortage of beds, oxygen, testing and diagnosis infrastructure through the first wave (March-October 2020), while the second wave (December 2020-November 2021) saw the state health machinery recuperating based on lessons learned from the first wave. But the second wave wreaked havoc in terms of death and suffering, more than what people suffered through the first wave, thanks to the severe Delta variant of the SARS-CoV-2 virus.

NUMBER OF DAYS TAKEN FROM MARCH 8, 2020
To reach 1,000 patients: 65 (May 12, 2020)
To reach 2,000 from 1,000: 10 (May 22, 2020)
To reach 3,000 from 2,000: 8 (May 30, 2020)
Reached 1.06 lakh (July 28, 2020)
2.03 lakh (August 13, 2020)
10.06 lakh (April 2, 2021)
20.13 lakh (May 11, 2021)
30.00 lakh (Dec 11, 2021)
39.42 lakh (March 7, 2022)
HIGHEST POSITIVITY RATES
1st wave 12.54% (Sept 27, 2020)
2nd wave 8.81% (June 4, 2021)
3rd wave 6.21% (Feb 5, 2022)
RECOVERY RATE
Lowest (July 5, 2020) - 35.29%
Highest (March 7, 2022) - 98.90%

In the third wave (January-March 2022), however, the Omicron variant was luckily milder than the preceding variants, besides the anti-Covid-19 vaccination programme — which was kick-started on January 16, 2021 — provided a degree of immunity to the vaccinated population.

The number of deaths in the first and second waves were almost three times the death toll in the third wave. Experts have said the health apparatus in the state has emerged wiser and better prepared, although they also suggested improvement in areas to remain alert to pandemic signals in the future.

Dr V Ravi, eminent virologist, nodal officer of the Indian SARS-CoV-2 Genomics Consortium (INSACOG) lab at Nimhans, and Head, Research & Development, Tata Medical and Diagnostic Centre, told TNIE, "As far as preparedness is concerned, we are much better prepared, not just in terms of infrastructure, but also in preventing hospitalisation and deaths." However, he said, "What needs to be continuously carried out is sentinel surveillance. Fever, respiratory infections need to be continuously tested for known pathogens. If they turn negative then such cases need to be checked through Next Generation Sequencing. Strategic surveillance needs to be set up in hotspots where there are man-animal-bird interactions and wet markets."Dr Ravi said the state lacked human resources in many areas which is important for finding new variants.

Dr C Nagaraj, member, state Covid-19 Technical Advisory Committee, and Director, Rajiv Gandhi Institute of Chest Diseases, said initially there was a lack of facilities such as oxygen beds and ventilators. But once the government responded to the need to strengthen infrastructure, things started to improve. "People would earlier neglect symptoms of persistent cough. Once Covid-19 set in, people became alert to even the slightest of coughs or common colds, and reported to health centres," Dr Nagaraj explained.

Spike in angioplasty cases points to cardiac diseases

CHETANA BELAGERE @ Bengaluru

BESIDES an increase in coronary heart related deaths, Karnataka is also seeing a rise in the number of people going through angioplasty. Karnataka's renowned Jayadeva Institute of Cardiovascular Research Centre alone has conducted 10,000 angioplasty procedures in the past one year. Mysuru's Jayadeva Hospital has conducted 6,500 angioplasties, and at least 30 per cent of them are people below 40 years of age.

"There is definitely an increase in burden of cardiac diseases. While there are many who present at later stages when the heart is already ruptured and needs a major surgery, or doesn't give us a window to save the patient, there are a few who identify symptoms and come to us. We have been able to save lives through medication and also angioplasty," explained Dr Manjunath CN, Director, Jayadeva Hospitals.

Appreciating the government's budget announcement of mapping cath labs to Jayadeva, which will help especially in rural areas, Dr Abhijit Vilas Kulkarni, renowned cardiologist, Apollo Hospital, Bannerghatta Road, says, "There are three reasons for rising cases of angioplasty: increasing burden of the disease itself, awareness created around the disease and also increase in screening. Even private hospitals conduct about 450 cases per month. These are huge numbers."

Dr Manjunath says "stress has become the new smoking" for the urban population. Apart from a few major factors like heredity, lifestyle and diabetes control, stress and pollution are also contributing to coronary heart disease. For rural areas, along with predisposed heart disease are factors like diabetes, use of tobacco, smoking and alcohol intake. Dr Abhijit says, "As Indians, we are predisposed to having heart diseases, and smoking is prevalent in rural areas. Earlier, it was thought to be a disease of the affluent, but that is no longer the case."

According to doctors, lack of awareness in rural areas makes people report the disease in its later stages. "While urban areas have screening for cholesterol, TMT, echo etc, rural areas do not have awareness and such screenings. The budget announcement has been made, but we are lagging in infrastructure. If Jayadeva maps it, the government can take care of the financial part," Dr Abhijit adds.

Meanwhile, doctors say coronary heart disease is common in males, but nowadays even young women who have stress and uncontrolled diabetes are showing up. However, more males have undergone angioplasty.

Hijab row: Sec 144 in force till March 22 near colleges

BENGALURU: Following protests over the hijab row at educational institutions across the state, the Bengaluru City Police have extended Section 144 of the CrPC within a radius of 200 metres around schools and colleges in the city for two more weeks. Karnataka witnessed several demonstrations in the last one month over the issue, which had forced the State Government to declare holidays for high schools and colleges. As a preventive step, Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant issued prohibitory orders on Monday, banning all types of protests and gatherings near educational institutions in the city till March 22.

Tattoo artist among 3 held for peddling drugs

BENGALURU: The Hulimavu police on Monday arrested three interstate drug peddlers, including a woman tattoo artist, and recovered 12.9 kg of Hashish oil worth Rs 7.7 crore. The suspects are Vikram Magesh Kumar (23), a habitual offender; Sijil Verghese (23); and his friend Vishnupriya (22). A police team raided the car park of an apartment in BTM Layout and nabbed Kumar, who revealed about his associates. The police raided a rented house in Kothanur and arrested Verghese and Vishnupriya. Investigation revealed that the gang had sourced the drugs from their contacts in Visakhapatnam and smuggled it into the city to sell to local peddlers.

STATE NEEDS ₹1 LAKH CRORE TO COMPLETE IRRIGATION PROJECTS

Bills of Rs 9,998 crore pending, says Water Resources Minister Karjol in Council

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE Water Resources Department will require Rs 1 lakh crore to complete all ongoing irrigation projects in the state.

"We need Rs 1 lakh crore to complete works taken up by Cauvery Neeravari Nigam Ltd (CNNL), Karnataka Neeravari Nigam Ltd (KNNL), Krishna Bhagya Jala Nigam Ltd (KBJNL) and Visvesvaraya Jala Nigam Ltd (VJNL)," Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol informed the Legislative Council on Monday while responding to a question raised by JDS MLC B M Farooq.

Karjol said Rs 17,410.28 crore was allocated to the four corporations in 2021-22 of which Rs 10,967.47 crore was released and Rs 10,824.74 was spent. He said Rs 9,998.95 crore bills are pending towards the completed and ongoing works taken up by the four corporations. In 2014-15, Rs 796 crore was pending and it increased to Rs 1,231 crore in 2015-16 and now it is 9,998.95 crore, Karjol said.

In CNNL, bills to the tune of Rs 1,355.16 crore are pending, while in KNNL, bills of Rs 4,058.32 crore, Rs 3,273.07 crore in VJNL and Rs 1,312.40 crore in KBJNL are pending. The State Government is clearing the bills based on time-bound implementation of projects and priority is given to projects with Central funding and drinking water, water conservation projects and small contractors with less than Rs 50 lakh, the minister said.

Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol speaks in the Legislative Council on Monday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

Explaining the reasons for such a huge sum to complete the ongoing projects, Karjol said many projects were announced by allocating token amounts in the budgets for conducting a survey and preparing detailed project reports, but administrative approvals were given to such projects and tenders too were called. The requirement is for Rs 1 lakh crore, but allocations do not tally with it, he said, adding that allocations have to be made over the years and irrigation projects take time due to various reasons.

"We have enough water to bring another 22 lakh hectares under irrigation, but funds are an issue," he said, adding that they are taking up the ongoing projects on priority and making all efforts to ensure that required funds for completing all ongoing projects are mobilised.

YETTINAHOLE SCHEME

'Reduced dam capacity won't impact project'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FACED with land acquisition problems for the Byragondlu (in Tumakuru) reservoir, which is part of the Yettinahole project, the State Government has decided to reduce the reservoir capacity from 10 tmcft to 2 tmcft. Water Resources Minister Govind Karjol, however, said this will not impact the project and it will be able to provide water to all the areas as planned earlier.

Responding to concerns raised by opposition MLCs that many areas in Kolar will not get water if the capacity is reduced, Karjol said after elected representatives insisted that the project be started without any delay, they prepared an alternative proposal with 2 tmcft reservoir capacity and a revised estimate of Rs 23,251 crore. The Finance Department is now looking into it, he added.

Explaining the challenges in land acquisition, he said they require 12,857 acres of which 11,747 acres are from farmers, 118 forest land and 992 acres of government land. The difficulty is that land that has to be acquired from farmers is spread in two taluks —Koratagere and Doddaballapur — and guidance value in both places is different. The compensation is given based on the guidance value and it is not possible to give the same compensation in different places as it will impact projects across the state, he said.

Congress and JDS MLCs expressed concern over the delay in taking up the project to provide drinking water to Hassan, Chikkamagalur, Tumakuru, Bengaluru Rural, Ramanagara, Chikkaballapur and Kolar. The project cost in 2014 was Rs 12,912.36 crore and it has now increased to Rs 23,251 crore.

Bitcoin: Not protecting anyone, says minister

Bengaluru: Home Minister Araga Jnanendra told the Legislative Council on Monday that the police had recovered around Rs 2 crore out of Rs 11.5 crore that was stolen by hackers through the State Government's e-procurement portal. During the discussion on the bitcoin scam in the Upper House, Jnanendra defended the police investigation in the case, saying that it was on the right track and there was no question of safeguarding anyone. When Opposition leader B K Hariprasad alleged that VVIPs were involved in the scam and that their names should be revealed, the minister asked him to provide the names with documents and he said will order a probe into the matter.

Siddaramaiah tears into Bommai's budget, says it has stamp of RSS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

TERMING Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's maiden budget as lacking in vision, Opposition leader in the Assembly, Siddaramaiah, said that he was hoping it would have former CM S R Bommai's influence, but has more of RSS imprint. "I was disappointed," he remarked.

Speaking in the Assembly on Monday, Siddaramiah, who initiated a discussion on the budget, said Basavaraj Bommai, who comes from a non-RSS background, was made the CM while original RSS people were ignored. "Basavaraj Bommai had the influence of his father S R Bommai's socialist ideology and I was hoping his budget will have his father's stamp. If someone with an RSS background had presented this budget, I would not have felt bad. Basavaraj Bommai has become more of an RSS man and so is his budget," he said.

Outsider who?

When Siddaramaiah began his speech, he said there were many leaders with RSS background "including you (referring to Revenue Minister R Ashoka) and K S Eshwarappa. But ignoring them, Bommai, who was not even in touch with the RSS or BJP till 2008, was made CM". To this, Ashoka retorted saying Siddaramiah himself was also not from Congress, but was made CM in 2013.

Siddaramaiah said that in order to cover its mistakes, the BJP government is blaming the Covid-19 situation. Citing the lockdowns, the government said it was not able to collect taxes and therefore, went for borrowings. Even the Fiscal Responsibility Act was amended to facilitate this. "The double engine government has failed miserably" he asserted. Till 2018, the state had loans of Rs 2.42 lakh crore which will increase to Rs 5.18 lakh crore by the end of March 2023. This year alone, the State Government has to pay more than Rs 43,000 crore including Rs 27,000 crore interest on the loans, he noted.

Training his guns on the Centre, Siddaramaiah said Karnataka pays more than Rs 3 lakh crore in taxes but, in return, gets only Rs 44,000 crore.

SIT to probe land grabbing by officials: Bommai

BENGALURU: Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday declared that a Special Investigation Team (SIT) will be set up to conduct a comprehensive inquiry into government lands being transferred illegally to individuals in and around Bengaluru, besides mooting legislation to curtail the quasi-judicial powers vested with assistant commissioners and deputy commissioners. Bommai also informed that clear-cut guidelines will be issued to make revenue officials accountable -- from village accountants (VAs) to Deputy Commissioners (DCs), not by their post but by individual names, for all the land transactions that take place in their jurisdiction. Bommai clarified that he will "take action immediately" to suspend KAS officer K Ranganath, formerly Bengaluru North assistant commissioner, who had allegedly helped land sharks grab over 37 acres of land by his order as sub-divisional magistrate, based on bogus land records.

'40 OVERSTAYING FOREIGNERS IN DETENTION CENTRE'

IN Bengaluru over the last three years, 296 cases against 441 foreign nationals have been registered, including for overstaying and indulging in criminal activities. They will be kept at the Detention Centre in Bengaluru till cases against them are disposed of and they get an Exit Permit from the departments concerned.

Jnanendra said that at present, 40 people are lodged in the Detention Centre. "We need cooperation from states like West Bengal as many people come here with identity cards issued in those states and some of them also get identity cards after coming here," he said, and added that as of December 2021, 672 foreigners were staying illegally in Bengaluru.

Legislators cutting across party lines demanded that the government take stern action against overstaying foreigners.

Go digital, raise awareness on Jan Aushadi Kendras: PM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru, Mysuru

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi interacted virtually with beneficiaries of the generic drug initiative on the 4th anniversary of Jan Aushadhi Diwas, including one Babita Rao from Mysuru.

An award was also announced to Sayed Asif from Shivamogga under the Jan Aushadhi Sarvashreshta category. Asif started the Jan Aushadhi store in 2017 and, in the first month, earned Rs 15,000. Now, the business has grown to Rs 12,26,298 per month, in the last one year.

Babita Rao told the PM that she has been purchasing good quality medicines at low cost from Jan Aushadhi Kendras for the past four years. The PM asked her to use social media to spread awareness on Jan Aushadi Kendras as it will help families save on medical expenses.

"Karnataka is known for its IT strength and people should make use of the technology and social media platforms like Instagram, Twitter, Facebook and other digital modes to educate the masses about Jan Aushadi Kendras and generic medicines that are available at affordable prices," Modi said.

Rao told the PM that her family of five members used to spend Rs 15,000 on medicines and buying it from Jan Aushadi Kendras has drastically reduced the financial burden. Her in-laws suffer from diabetics and cardiac issues and purchase medicines from the Kendra.

Modi asked beneficiaries to make short videos in Kannada, Hindi and English about Jan Aushadhi Kendras and circulate it on social media.

At the event, Health Minister Dr K Sudhakar said there are 952 Jan Aushadi Kendras in Karnataka and added that the State Government has decided to open 500 more of them in community health centres within six months. Referring to people who earlier spent 30 to 40 percent of their incomes on medicines, he said that they have now availed generic drugs that are available at 70 to 80 per cent lesser prices.

"The quality and efficacy is the same as branded drugs. They are tested before being released into the market. I appeal to private doctors to not prescribe only branded medicines to those who cannot afford it. Instead, suggest generic medicines on humanitarian grounds," he said.

Union Minister Bhagawanth Khuba said that generic medicines have benefited people in a big way with 1,400 different drugs and 240 surgical items available. He said that drug supply has been digitised and they have come out with cheap glucometers, strips and other products.

WITH scores of students returning from Ukraine, a host of leaders are suggesting that the government accommodate them in medical colleges here.

JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy suggested, "There are about 50-60 medical colleges in Karnataka. If need be, let there be an entrance exam to admit these students. Let at least 10 such students in each college be provided free education."

Opposition leader in Council B K Hariprasad and KPCC working president Eshwar Khandre told The New Indian Express that the students should be accommodated by amending rules. "We are just emerging out of the Covid pandemic, when so many lives were lost, and every medical graduate is a precious medical resource. The government should move fast," they felt.

Kumaraswamy noted, "It is impossible for students to return to continue their studies. What will be the future of their education? Parents had raised loans to educate their wards. It is the responsibility of the Central Government to safeguard the future of thee students who returned from Ukraine. Stop indulging in selling dreams of students by fixing a price for education," he noted.

Yemen court upholds death penalty

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Kochi

AN appeal court in Yemen on Monday upheld the death penalty of Nimisha Priya, a nurse from Palakkad, for murdering a Yemen national, shattering the hopes of her husband and other family members who were expecting leniency.

Nimisha

Nimisha was found guilty of murdering Talal Abdo Mahdi in 2017. She was accused of chopping the 24-year-old's body into pieces and disposing it in a water tank with the help of a colleague, Hanan, who was sentenced to life imprisonment.

Nimisha's counsel had pleaded for mercy saying the 33-year-old was compelled to use force as she was unable to bear Talal's physical torture. However, the appeal court, which had deferred the announcement of the verdict twice, upheld the lower court's sentence. Though Nimisha's relatives offered to pay blood money, Talal's family rejected it. They also protested in front of the court demanding a death sentence for Nimisha, mother of a seven-year-old girl.

Advocate K L Balachandran, who has been coordinating with Nimisha's legal team in Yemen, said that though the appeal court's verdict has ended all hopes for legal recourse, they still have a chance to approach the Supreme Judicial Council with a mercy petition. "We are also trying to reach out to Talal's family through welfare organisations in Yemen," said Balachandran.

NEED FRESH LOOK AT IBC TO BRING IT BACK ON TRACK

The new insolvency and bankruptcy regime in the country is floundering. When it came into force during the second half of 2016, it was hailed as one of the biggest reforms undertaken by the Central government (bigger than GST, as many would have us believe), which was supposed to resolve loan default cases fast and help banks achieve better recovery than the then average of 26% of the creditors' claim. Five and a half years since then, the Insolvency and Bankruptcy Code (IBC) is struggling to keep up with the expectations. The latest data by the insolvency regulator shows that till December 2021, the code has helped banks recover on an average 33% of their claimed amount in 458 cases that were resolved through the IBC process. And even as some would argue that the main objective of the Code is faster resolution and not recovery, it cannot escape their mind that the latter has been worryingly coming down. Till March 2020, the average recovery was around 45%.

Even on the issue of faster resolution, the IBC has been scoring low. The average time taken to resolve the cases is now over 460 days (against the stipulated 330 days). Some of the large cases are yet to see any resolution even after five years; a case in point is Jaypee Infratech, which is yet to be resolved five years after it was referred to the National Company Law Tribunal (NCLT)—the adjudicating authority under the IBC. There are several other cases that took three-four years to see any kind of closure—either resolution or liquidation. The process of liquidation, in which a company's assets are sold to recover money, itself takes ages to get over after the order from the NCLT. Of over 1,500 corporate debtors ordered to be liquidated by the NCLT till December 2021, only 292 cases have seen full closure.

Experts blame the lack of capacity in NCLTs and some even fault their inability to act as pure commercial courts for the failure of India's new insolvency regime. The NCLTs and even the National Company Law Appellate Tribunal (NCLAT) have been rightly blamed for allowing frivolous petitions to delay the process. Whatever the reasons, the government has to take a fresh look at the IBC and effect fundamental changes to bring it back on track.

GOOD START BY ROHIT, BIGGER TESTS AHEAD

If the last three to four months are anything to go by, Rohit Sharma's ascension to captaincy in all formats cannot be questioned. Across all three versions, Rohit is yet to lose a single game against three countries (New Zealand, West Indies and Sri Lanka). He has captained in 13 matches (nine T20Is, three ODIs and a Test) and India has won the entire lot. It's perhaps helped that all 13 have come at home but that shouldn't take away from the fact that he has hit the ground running at a time when experimentation has been a buzzword because the next editions of the T20 World Cup as well as the 50-over one are in less than 18 months. In these two formats alone, including Rohit, as many as 27 players have been tried in 12 games. So that's a big plus point in favour of his captaincy under the new coaching regime. With more white-ball games lined up between now and the T20 World Cup in Australia (notably against South Africa and England), there is opportunity for Rohit and coach Rahul Dravid to further gather information about the ideal combination.

The challenge, though, remains the ability to replicate this performance under pressure situations in world tournaments. Virat Kohli and Ravi Shahtri led the team ably in bilateral events but failed to win a single knockout game in ICC events. Sure, Rohit's appointment, at the age of 34, can only be a short-term one but it can be successful. However, beating a West Indies team searching for new blood and a depleted Sri Lankan side is one thing. Doing it in a World Cup is what really counts for a team that's still searching for its first ICC title since the 2013 Champions Trophy. There is also the small matter of maintaining the same intensity in the longer format where a place in next year's World Test Championship final should be the aim. If the team is to book a spot, doing well against Australia in early 2023 is imperative. As the numbers suggest, this is a good start but the two biggest challenges for the new captain—the T20 World Cup and the Test series against Australia—will define his tenure.

In such a war, all are losers. The bull-headed Russian approach may fetch it eventual domination in the battlefield but this would be the beginning of a proxy war that NATO will launch

CONTRADICTIONS IN UKRAINE AND HOW THE CONFLICT COULD END

LT GEN SYED ATA HASNAIN (RETD)

Former Commander, Srinagar-based 15 Corps. Now Chancellor, Central University of Kashmir

SOUMYADIP SINHA

It's the first time after 2003 that the world is witnessing a conventional conflict of such proportions. The destruction associated with it is mind-boggling and the imagery from Ukraine is drawing empathy for it from all over the world. A war was not expected but once it did break out, it is progressing much against expectations, making everything unpredictable. Putin's aim to finish the war in a very short time and brace himself for the post-conflict dynamics in terms of response from NATO has come a cropper. The asymmetry in air power is very high in favour of Russia but it chose not to ape the US 'shock and awe' doctrine employed in Iraq in 2003, or so it seemed. The Ukrainian forces responded with an unexpected intensity and it seems that the Russian Air Force, even where it was employed, was not able to create the impact of break-in operations. In the second phase, missiles, rockets and long-range artillery have been used progressively causing intense destruction, with little concern for civilian casualties.

The Russian strategy is flexible as much as its application of forces. Its political aim is identified as regime change or regime displacement, preferably the former; the latter has different connotations that could mean a continuation of Ukrainian resistance in the asymmetrical mode. Russia's other stated political aim of de-Nazifying Ukraine essentially looks at removing NATO influence. The term de-Nazification has been used to obfuscate and confuse, attempting to take the conflict into the grey zone domain. The military aim appears to be the suppression of Ukrainian forces to prevent their current and future ability to resist. To achieve this, its concept of operations has included simultaneity and activation of a wide front; the maps seen in television briefs contain red blotches all along the frontiers and include a blockade of the southern ports on the Black Sea. The maritime effort is primarily because many of Ukraine's manufacturing hubs are located in these port cities or in their vicinity. Ukraine is quite famous for its precision engineering besides being considered the granary of Europe. This is also one of the ways to target its economy so that the will to resist is compromised. The Centre of Gravity (CoG) is usually (although debated by many military scholars) the entity from where the nation derives its strength to fight and around which the resistance is organised. This could be in the political, military or even the psychological domain. Kyiv appears to qualify as the physical CoG, the political one probably being Volodymyr Zelenskyy, the president who has acquired an iconic international status and whose leadership could keep the war going for longer than expected. Both Kyiv and Zelenskyy are being targeted.

Was the limited Russian effort in the identified Phase 1, which lasted till the sixth day, calibrated for ethical reasons? This is hardly likely considering the vicious turn taken by the Russian efforts in Phase 2. It was earlier being presumed that Russia was calibrating because it is not an island unto itself and in the post-conflict environment, it has to co-exist in the international order. No one is any longer attaching that sense of ethics to Putin as he reflects the image of a deranged dictator, something Ukraine has effectively used in its information war efforts. It is learnt that a large segment of Russians is opposed to the war, images of which are being deliberately hidden from the public in that country.

So, is Kyiv likely to fall anytime soon? Ukraine is investing in the defence of Kyiv although its leadership should be fully aware that this would entail its virtual destruction. How a city gets addressed is an interesting aspect of war fighting. In the instant case of Kyiv, a segment of the population appears to have evacuated the city. To maintain the nation's will, near normalcy of functioning will be depicted by the Ukraine government. The Russians as the attackers and invaders will first aim to 'isolate' the city by placing strong dominating teams of tanks, infantry and combat engineers astride all roads and railway lines to prevent ingress into more than egress from the city. They will then attempt to 'invest' the city. Investment implies the squeezing of the city so that early warning tank-infantry teams strung all along the periphery by the Ukrainians are driven in and an opportunity is sought to obtain a foothold in the built-up area. The defender will aim to prevent that foothold while the attackers will make every effort to find even a toehold and expand that to create one or two launch pads from where operations can then be launched deeper into the lanes and streets. It may be recalled that the fight for Mosul in northern Iraq lasted over two months and the defence was by a depleted terrorist force of the Islamic State. Kyiv had a population of 2.3 million and Mosul 1.6 million. While Russians employ their attack helicopters of the Mi-24 variety, Ukraine will employ hundreds of Stinger missiles in ambush mode on the approaches leading to the city. The Javelin anti-tank missiles will also be used to ward off the approach of tanks and attack helicopters flying nape of the earth. Even if a break-in is achieved, it will take quite some time before the dogfight in the built-up area is taken to any finality, and the Russians could suffer many casualties considering their proficiency is yet to be proven in this war. The important factor is the logistical sustainability of Kyiv. With severe rationing in place, it can only last till supplies run out.

So, where is the war destined to reach? Prediction can only be done on the basis of known parameters and historical patterns. Putin is in no position to halt operations without achieving his basic objectives now that he has gone to the full extent. In such a war, there is no victor and no vanquished. All are losers. The bull-headed Russian approach may fetch it eventual domination in the battlefield but this would be the beginning of a proxy war that NATO will launch; an asymmetric war of the Bosnia kind will again continue interminably in the heart of Europe. Ukraine can stop, capitulate and save its cities and their people, but has been driven too far by NATO. At the end, its not just the immediate parties to the conflict but the world at large that will suffer the impact of their obduracy.

HOW WOMEN HAVE HELPED CREATE A GREEN TELANGANA

PRIYANKAA VARGHESE

IFS officer who is OSD to CM (Harithahaaram) and Dean of FCRI, Hyderabad

What's your mother doing?" "What's your wife doing?"

Very often I have heard people respond almost instantly: "Nothing." This is a mistaken perception. Society has somehow developed a mindset not to acknowledge certain contributions of women, but at the same time, has extensively acclaimed that of men. We can achieve gender equality only after we start valuing the forgotten contributions. Especially of late, the women who were thought to be doing 'nothing' are in fact doing everything. In this context, it is noteworthy that at Harithahaaram, we value the contributions of the women of Telangana in giving this state a green garland and thereby giving this country a verdant umbrella in its heartland.

Few are aware of the effort, dedication, commitment and involvement of the women of India's newest state in the programme, though our achievements in green initiatives have been recognised by the Government of India and at various other forums, both national and international. There is no better occasion than International Women's Day to make people aware of those behind the toil that went into making Harithahaaram a grand success.

Any greening programme starts with the creation of good planting stock. The key departments implementing Harithahaaram are the ones dealing with panchayat raj, forests and municipal administration. Telangana has 12,769 gram panchayats and each one has a nursery that is directly managed by the sarpanch, panchayat secretary and local forest staff. It is seldom noticed that out of the total 12,769 sarpanches, 6,808 are women, or 53% of the total strength. The management of nurseries is done by the panchayat secretaries, and 30% are again women. The women contributing to Harithahaaram belong to Mandal Parishad and Zilla Parishad Territorial Constituencies, and serve as Mandal presidents, chairpersons of Zilla Parishads, Mandal panchayat officers and development officers, divisional and district panchayat officers, and deputy CEOs and CEO of Zilla Parishads. Together, they add up to 44% of the total strength, certainly not negligible.

Urban forest parks, village and city tree parks, and avenue, homestead and farm bund plantations, etc., are part of the Harithahaaram programme. These models are a great success in Telangana with a per capita green cover increase of 137% in the last decade in the city of Hyderabad alone. Here too, 42% of field-level uniformed personnel are women and they are directly involved in monitoring the plantations and their maintenance.

Women have demonstrated great capacity as leaders, experts, educators and innovators. The women's movements have made great strides in preserving and protecting our resources. It is critical to recognise their contributions as decision makers, stakeholders, caretakers, experts and even as labourers across all departments in implementing Harithahaaram.

Women bring more empathy and inclusiveness in their advocacy and problem-solving, which enhances their efficacy as sustainability leaders, whether it's a sarpanch or a panchayat secretary. This is evident to anybody who takes a ride to Annapureddypalli mandal of Bhadradri Kothagudem district. Here the Mandal Parishad development officer (MPDO), forest beat officer, sarpanch and the gram panchayat secretary are all women. Annapureddypalli is not unique in this regard. Other mandals such as Wargal, Mustabad and Veernapally too have women MPDOs, sarpanches and panchayat secretaries.

Women bring more empathy and inclusiveness in their advocacy and problem-solving, which enhances their efficacy as sustainability leaders, whether it's a sarpanch or panchayat secretary. This is evident to anybody who takes a ride to Annapureddypalli mandal of Bhadradri Kothagudem district

Earlier, during the Chipko Movement in the 1970s, women took the lead in stopping the tree felling by physically shielding—literally hugging—the trees. With their unique knowledge and capabilities of natural resource management, women are strong change-agents and key contributors to adaptation programmes at the local, regional and international levels. According to the Forest Survey Report (FSR), from 2015 to 2021, forest cover recorded in Telangana has increased to 6.85% and the tree cover to 14.51%. The overall increase in green cover is 7.7% since 2014. Women have led the way and are torchbearers in creating and sustaining greenery. Women have the knowledge and also a better understanding of how to adapt to the changing environment and determine practical solutions. Elsewhere and even in Telangana earlier, women were a largely untapped resource due to lesser representation in decision-making and work implementation.

In order to create the green garland, the Forest College and Research Institute in Mulugu, Hyderabad, was established by the state government. Here, 62% of the total students in the UG and PG levels are girls. This will help generate more women forest managers who will conserve and protect the resources efficiently for the generations to come. Haritha Nidhi and Green Fund, which are special and innovative steps, have shown that such green efforts are high in the list of the state government's priorities.

A simple attempt that spread its wings in no time was the Green India Challenge to plant saplings, which was well supported by members of the film fraternity, sportspersons, politicians and many other celebrities. Their support has brought in more community participation and awareness. Here too, women participation has been remarkable.

A famous quote by G D Anderson comes to my mind: "Feminism isn't about making women stronger, women are already stronger. It's about changing the way the world perceives that strength." We are moving towards an exhilarating time in history where the world accepts gender balance. Now any absence of women is being noticed and their presence is being celebrated in every sphere of life. I feel proud and happy that the world is coming together to recognise the hard work of women and acknowledge their achievements. On this day, let's take a moment to cherish the essence of being a woman, rejoice in our strength and remember our significance in society. Let's inspire the world with greater achievements as we contribute equally in every sector of our life—whether it's at our home, workplace, society or nation.

Past attempts failed

This is with reference to the editorial Third front talk heats up ahead of results & Prez poll (Mar 7). We are witnessing the initiation of moves by leaders of certain non-BJP parties to form a third front in the next general elections. However, the stark reality is that in the past, similar attempts to float anti-BJP grand alliances were non-starters on account of egoistic clashes among regional party leaders who all aspired for the post of prime minister.

B Veerakumaran Thampi, Pattom

Sublimate egos

With chances of the BJP not faring all too well in the polls for the five states now a distinct possibility, the opposition appears keen to join ranks and present a united front against the NDA in the Presidential polls due in July this year. Regional satraps like K Chandrashekhar Rao, M K Stalin and Mamata Banerjee are all deeply involved in wooing other opposition leaders, and should their plans fructify, the saffron alliance might well face an uphill task in getting its candidate elected as President after the present incumbent Ram Nath Kovind's term comes to an end. The only caveat is that the regional leaders should sublimate their egos and work towards a common goal.

Tackle stress in forces

It is shocking to hear that the BSF at Khasa camp near Amritsar has lost five of its soldiers in a shootout within the unit. India cannot afford to lose trained men in uniform in this way. The BSF top brass and the government should implement remedial measures to help tackle stress in its force.

P P Sahadevan, Nileshwar

Spiralling crude prices

It is not known when the war between Russia and Ukraine will come to an end. Prices of petroleum products have escalated and scarcity appears inevitable. These are grave circumstances and though the public will still suffer, the government should think of allowing only private vehicles with odd-numbered plates to function on odd days and those with even numbers to function on even days.

A metaphor for fairness

This is with reference to Finding The Thiruvarur Legend In Lepakshi, AP (Mar 7). The name of Manu Neeti Chola has been used as a metaphor for fairness and justice from time immemorial. As the writer has pointed out, his legend should have inspired the designers of the Virabhadra temple to create the mural in commemoration of the impartial rule of Virupanna. A statue of the Chola king adorns the entrance of the High Court building in Chennai to underscore the importance of fairness in justice.

Student shot in Kyiv back, parents delighted

Minister accompanies Delhi's Harjot Singh who suffered four bullet hits during escape bid and lost his passport

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

HARJOT Singh, the student who was shot by the forces in war-gripped Ukraine, has come back to India. An Indian Air Force flight carrying Indian student Harjot Singh, who was shot in Ukrainian capital Kyiv a few days ago, landed at the Hindon airbase here Monday evening, officials said.

Thirty-one-year-old Harjot Singh had gone to Ukraine to purse a course in European languages. He is currently admitted in Army's Research and Referral Hospital.

According to officials, Harjot has not been permitted to speak with media persons. On February 27, he was shot while boarding a cab along with three friends – two Ukrainians and an African – while heading for the Lviv in a bid to escape Kyiv. He was hit by four bullets, including one in the chest.

Harjot's family in Delhi said they are "very, very happy" and went to pick him up from Hindon Air Base where he landed in an Air India flight.

After Harjot's new came into light, the Indian government decided to bring him back in a special flight. Minister of State for Civil Aviation V K Singh said 205 Indian students returned to India on the flight that had left from Rzesz'w in Poland at 10.30 am and landed here at 6.15 pm, officials said.

Singh was in Poland to facilitate the evacuation of students. "Harjot Singh is the Indian who was shot during the war in Kyiv. His passport was also lost," the MoS tweeted.

He said Harjot Singh is reaching India with him on Monday. "Hope there is a speedy recovery with home food and care," the minister stated.

Singh, who is in Poland currently to facilitate students' evacuation, had on March 4 told reporters, "Today, we heard reports that a student leaving Kyiv was shot. He was taken back to Kyiv. This will happen in a fighting."

The Ministry of External Affairs on Friday announced that the government would bear the medical expenses of Harjot.

A total of 1,314 Indians were airlifted by seven civilian flights from Ukraine's neighbouring countries on Monday, the Ministry of Civil Aviation said on the day.

Student trolled for video of situation on ground in war zone

ANKITA UPADHYAY @ New Delhi

A student from Lakshadweep pursuing MBBS in Ukraine was trolled online for putting up videos of his experience in the war-torn country.

Aousaf Hussain, a fourth-year student of Kharkiv National Medical University, was criticised by persons from Kerala and Lakshadweep for going out and getting food for his friends who are living in a bunker in Kharkiv. The trolls attacked him for walking in the war zone, eating and taking videos of soldiers.

In the video, the student is seen walking with food in his hand. He was saying that the kind of suffering he is facing is beyond description. "Will someone contact the Indian embassy? What discussions are they having at this point of time? I don't understand why they are wasting time on discussions".

After the trolling, Aousaf went into depression. His mother was also hospitalised and had to be kept under observation.

According to his friends, Aousaf had stepped out of the shelter to get food because none of them had eaten anything that day. "Shawarma was the only food available nearby. After packing the food for his friends, he was rushing back. Because he was hungry, he started eating his share," said his friend Shana M Shaji.

In the video, Aousaf is also seen saying that he was stopped by some soldiers for shooting videos. They did not come in an army vehicle, but a car. They asked him to delete the video. He thought he was going to be killed, but somehow managed to escape from the scene.

According to Afsal Husain, Aousaf's elder brother, this video came under attack from people who posted comments saying he should be killed in the battlefield. "Some right wing social media accounts with around 2 million followers asked the Indian government to not evacuate him."

Another video posted by Aousaf with his female friends also became the target of trolls. The girls allege that a large number of trolls had religious colour. "We were wearing hoodies in the video and that was thought to be hijab. We were alerted by our parents that online comments are calling us terrorists," said Shana.

WAR UPS DEMAND FOR PUNJAB WHEAT

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

RUSSIA and Ukraine account for nearly 40 per cent of global wheat supply. The war disrupted that supply. This has resulted in an increase in demand for wheat from India. Being the largest wheat producing state in the country, Punjab might benefit from this. Already, enquiries are being made by global food retail giants on the quantum of wheat they can buy from stakeholders here.

Talking to this daily, Punjab Roller Flour Mills Association president Naresh Ghai said, "The demand for wheat in the intentional market has increased due to the war between Russia and Ukraine. Wheat is bought at ₹2,200 per quintal by private traders and when it reaches the Kandla port in Gujarat, it costs around ₹2,400 per quintal. This time, there is demand from Bangladesh and Sri Lanka. Last year, around 70 lakh tonnes of wheat was exported from India."

He claimed that currently, around 200 lakh tonnes of wheat is lying with the Indian government. Around 1,000-1,100 lakh tonnes is expected shortly as the new crop will be ready in a few days.

Ghai said demand from private traders this procurement season has been is good, but high taxation by the state government could become a deterrent. So there is a chance of traders buying wheat from Uttar Pradesh, Madhya Pradesh and Gujarat due to low prices there. "If the Punjab government wants to make profit through wheat export in the upcoming procurement season, it should reduce the taxes imposed on private players in the interest of farmers," he said.

A few commission agents on condition of anonymity said that in the last week, there have been many queries from global food retail giants and food grain exporters like ITC, Adani Group, Cargill, and Australian Wheat Board. Their representatives are in the state to assess the volume of wheat they can buy from here. "The war has choked the global supply of wheat, pushing its price by over $11 a bushel," they said.

Ravinder Singh Cheena, president of Arhtiya Association, Punjab, said the demand will be more this year. "Last year, private traders bought 5-10 lakh metric tonnes of wheat from Punjab at ₹1,925 per quintal. This year, they might buy around 20 lakh MT at more than ₹2,000 per quintal. It depends on how long the war continues," he said.

Do away with partisan propaganda: Cong to govt

Expressing concern over the safety of Indian students in Ukraine, Congress has asked the Centre to bring back all citizens without indulging in partisan propaganda. "We remain gravely concerned about the safety of thousands of Indian students and citizens trapped in war zones. It is the duty of the government of India to make all efforts to bring back our citizens and it is important to remember and recall that India has in the past undertaken successful large-scale operations by its air force and navy to evacuate Indians during the Gulf war and in Lebanon, Libya and Iraq without indulging in partisan propaganda," it said.

UK wants India, China to put pressure on Russia

Dominic Raab, the Deputy Prime Minister of United Kingdom, has urged India and China to increase diplomatic pressure on Russia to stop the ongoing conflict in Ukraine. "China has got a job here. They've got to step up. They are a permanent member of the (UN) Security Council and India as well. We need to expand the diplomatic pressure," Raab said while speaking to the British media. Both India and China have refrained from condemning Russia. He also rejected Russian president Vladimir Putin's statement from Saturday where likened the West's economic sanctions on his nation to a declaration of war.

Students in Belarus prepare to evacuate

Fearing a spillover of the war in Ukraine, Indians studying in neighbouring Belarus are getting ready to leave for India despite assurances from universities and local authorities to the contrary. With the war in Ukraine entering its 12th day on Monday and tensions between Kyiv and Moscow showing no signs of easing, the students said there is panic in Belarus and their families in India too are concerned about their wellbeing. Vladimir Putin announced a special military operation in Ukraine on the night of February 23. Belarus, bordering the two warring nations, has been accused of supporting Russia.

Modi: Capped prices of over 800 medicines

New Delhi: Reiterating that the government cares for the poor, Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Monday listed the capping of prices for cancer, TB medicines and providing free dialysis as some of the steps taken for the people.

"This government cares for the poor. For diseases like cancer, diabetes, TB, over 800 medicines are available at capped prices," Modi said on the occasion of Jan Aushadhi Diwas. He also said that the poor can undergo dialysis for free.

Stating that Jan Aushadhi centres through affordable medicines have given relief on a large scale, Modi said the initiative is taking care of the well-being of beneficiaries, while also cutting down on their medical expenses. ENS

PM bats for med edu in native language; docs oppose move

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

MEDICAL and technical education should be taught in mother tongue to make it easier for the poor who have not studied English in schools, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said on Monday.

Hours later, doctors and various experts said the move would be "impractical" and "not feasible." They contended that any such proposal was not well thought out.

On the occasion of Jan Aushadhi Diwas, Modi pitched for greater reach of native languages. "...they (students) will be able to study medical and technical education in their mother tongue so that the poor, middle-class and lower-middle-class children who haven't taken English in schools will also be able to become doctors."

The prime minister on Sunday in Assam had also said he has a dream of setting up at least one medical college and a technical institution in each state that will impart education in the local language.

However, doctors and experts said the move is not well-thought out and not feasible. Dr Rajeev Ranjan Prasad, a former member of the Medical Council of India, said, "India is a multilingual nation. We will have to standardise the words so that it means the same in other local languages too. I am not able to understand what goal will be achieved by doing this. The government's move is a very impractical one."

Federation of All India Medical Association (FIMA) national president Dr Rohan Krishnan also spoke in the same vein. "National Medical Commission (NMC) allows students, who have done MBBS from six English speaking countries, to practice medicine in India without a screening test. This shows that they also understand that quality medical education can only be provided and accepted when done in English," he said, adding that it is not feasible.

Funeral procession of Rafiya Jan in Srinagar on Monday | ZAHOOR PUNJABI

Student with 93% marks succumbs to injury

FAYAZ WANI @ Srinagar

A young girl – who had recently passed her class XII examination with flying colours and was aspiring to become a doctor – died on Monday of splinter injuries she had sustained in a grenade attack by militants in Srinagar a day ago.

Rafiya Jan, 19, daughter of Nazir Ahmad Tinda succumbed to injuries at SMHS hospital in Srinagar around 8 am on Monday.

She was among 25 people injured in the grenade attack at Amira Kadal on Sunday. A 60-year-old man identified as Mohammad Aslam Makhdoomi had died of injuries.

One of Rafiya's relatives said she, along with her elder sister and mother, were on their way to visit her uncle at Bemina here. "The grenade attack was taken out at a market near Amira Kadal where the trio had alighted from a vehicle. Rafiya sustained critical splinter injuries. Her sister also sustained injuries in the leg," he said.

Rafiya, according to her relatives, is a bright student and had dreams of accomplishing big. "She had been preparing to give the NEET to become a doctor," said a relative.

She had recently passed 12th class exam by securing 93.4 per cent (467/500).

Rafiya leaves behind her parents, two brothers and a sister. "Her father is a carpet weaver. Her two brothers work as labourers to ensure that she gets the schooling she needs," said a relative.

The pall of gloom descended on Rafiya's native Hazratbal when her body reached there. A large crowd had gathered to mourn her death. Later, hundreds attended her funeral prayers.

SC flags fake Covid death certificates

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court Monday expressed concern over fake Covid death certificates being issued by doctors for ex-gratia compensation and observed that it might order a probe into the issue. A bench of Justices M R Shah and B V Nagarathna also said that there should be some time limit for claims seeking compensation.

"What is worrying is the fake certificate given by doctors... It is a very serious thing", the bench observed.

The apex court said that there must be some time limit, otherwise, the process will go endlessly. "It may take away someone's real opportunity", the bench said.

At the outset, Solicitor General Tushar Mehta submitted that there should be an outer time limit for submitting claims. The Solicitor General submitted that the top court has ordered that an RT-PCR certificate was not necessary for compensation and the same can be allowed based on a doctor's certificate.

The bench sought suggestions on the issue and posted the matter for hearing on March 14. The top court was hearing a batch of pleas filed by Gaurav Bansal, represented by advocate Sumeer Sodhi, seeking ex-gratia assistance to families of Covid victims.

ASSEMBLY ELECTION 2022 DECIDE

U'khand 2nd in number of women contestants

DEHRADUN: Uttarakhand ranks second in terms of ticket distribution to women candidates and fourth when it comes to crorepati candidates in the fray for the Assembly elections in the five states, revealed a study by Association of Democratic Reforms (ADR). While 560 women candidates are contesting in UP, making it 13% of the total candidates in the fray in the state, Uttarakhand ranks second with 62 women candidates (10% of total candidates) in the fray.

BJP, SP SPAR OVER RESULTS OF EXIT POLLS

Saffron party projected to retain power in Uttar Pradesh, main rival says no chance

Voters at a polling booth in Varanasi on the last phase of UP polls on Monday | PTI

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE day BJP's national president JP Nadda offered prayers at the holy shrine of Mata Vaishno Devi, projections of almost all exit polls hinted at the party's victory in Uttar Pradesh. Election results will be declared on March 10.

The exit polls project that Congress is failing to make a comeback in Punjab, with almost all of them showing AAP leading in the state. They show a close fight between BJP and Congress in Goa and Uttarakhand. In Manipur, the exit polls say, BJP will win.

The exit poll projection shared by India News said BJP will retain power in UP with 230-245 seats out of 403. ETO Research also projected as many seats for BJP. "What our senior leaders Amit Shah and JP Nadda have claimed for UP and the other three states will not prove untrue. We have got major support from the OBC in four states," said Nikhil Anand, national general secretary of BJP's OBC Morcha.

BJP sources said the rallies addressed by Prime Minister Narendra Modi, hard work of the local workers and campaigning by prominent national leaders have given the party an edge over its main rival SP, which has claimed that the exit polls are not showing the true picture.

SP and BSP, BJP's main rivals in UP, maintained that the saffron party will lose. SP chief Akhilesh Yadav said the ruling party would be wiped out. "Let them (exit polls) show whatever they have got. We are winning with a majority," he said.

The former chief minister added that the SP-led alliance would come to power with over 300 seats. "Gratitude to all voters, especially the youth, for taking the SP alliance beyond the majority mark," Yadav tweeted.

BSP MP from Amroha, Kunwar Danish Ali also said BJP would lose. "Exit polls are opinion-making surveys. These are to create a perception about the election results so that there can be malpractice in counting. They are preparing the ground for that. BJP will definitely bite the dust," he said.

In Punjab, exit polls said AAP's seats will range between 50-100 in an Assembly of 117 seats. Congress is likely to get between 10 and 33. It can be noted that Punjab Congress saw a lot of turmoil in the run-up to the elections.

Asked about party's position in Goa, where Congress, AAP and TMC are also in the fray, BJP's national spokesperson Guru Prakash said the party will retain power due to the work it has done there.

However, majority of exit polls predict a tough fight between BJP and Congress in Goa, with the latter having a slight edge. Congress was the single largest party in 2017 also, but failed to form the government as BJP moved fast and got allies to form the government.

Uttarakhand, a state that never voted the incumbent government back to power, is also seeing a tough fight between BJP and Congress with the former having an edge. During the five-year term of the BJP government, the party changed three chief ministers, giving a handle to the opposition to question the leadership.

Congress makes grand plans to safeguard new MLAs from poaching

RICHA SHARMA/SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ New Delhi/Mumbai

SEQUESTERING MLAs in a resort, round-the-clock communication and strategy to handle different scenarios to get the early-mover advantage — the Congress has readied plans for election-bound states, especially Goa and Uttarakhand, after the election results are announced on March 10.

Taking lessons from the 2017 Goa election, when slow decision-making by the leadership helped the BJP form government in the coastal state despite not having the required numbers, the Congress has already sent its central leaders to the poll-bound states.

> Decisions will be taken quickly this time. We are meeting all party candidates and ensuring that everyone is kept in the loop. We are thinking of shifting our MLAs to a safe zone
> Dinesh Rao, Congress

Goa observer P Chidambaram and AICC in-charge Dinesh Gundu Rao have been camping in the state since Sunday.

"Decisions will be taken quickly this time. We are meeting all party candidates and ensuring that everyone is kept in the loop. We are thinking of shifting our MLAs to a safe zone if a situation arises as we know the BJP's tactic of poaching MLAs in case none of the parties gets majority," Rao told this newspaper.

Last week, Congress chief Rahul Gandhi had met the party's Goa leadership to devise post-election strategy.

Rao said the Congress is open and ready to accept the support of the Aam Aadmi Party, Trinamool Congress, Maharashtrawadi Gomantak Party (MGP) and independents to form the next government in the state and that these parties need to take quick decisions after the results are announced.

The grand old party has shortlisted former Goa chief minister Digambar Kamat to lead the party MLAs, said party sources.

"We are confident of getting the majority. If there is a shortage of numbers for simple majority, then back-channel talks are already on with non-BJP parties," said Girish Chodankar, Goa Congress unit president.

Chhattisgarh Chief Minister Bhupesh Baghel has been given charge of handling the Uttarakhand affairs after the election results are announced.

In Uttarakhand, where the party is hoping to gain majority, Baghel will take charge for the post-result management strategy.

"Senior leaders have been sent to all poll-bound states to make quick decisions based on the results. We are expecting to form governments in Goa and Uttarakhand and a strategy has been prepared keeping in mind various possible scenarios," said a senior party leader.

Independent MLAs likely to get red carpet welcome

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

WHILE exuding confidence in forming government in the five states where polling has concluded, major political parties like the BJP and Congress have started efforts to bring winnable independent candidates on their side.

"Independent legislators, especially in UP, are likely to be more in demand this time. Reason is that none of the parties, including the ruling BJP, is confident of gaining absolute majority because of the neck-to-neck fight," said poll-manger of a prominent regional party in Uttar Pradesh.

He added that independent candidates who have strong winning probability are being approached by all the parties through their local leaders.

According to a reliable BJP source, party's national president JP Nadda, at an internal meeting on the eve of the last phase of Assembly elections on Sunday, asked leaders from UP and other states to continue talks with the independent candidates having strong probability of winning.

Sources said a good number of influential candidates after they were denied tickets by their parties contested as independents in Uttar Pradesh, Punjab, Goa and Uttarakhand this time and gave a tough fight to the official candidates.

The sources said influential local leaders and senior office-bearers of parties like the Samajwadi Party, BJP, Congress and Bahujan Samaj Party, after receiving feedback from field workers, have started assessing the winning probability of locally influential independent candidates.

"The independent legislators may prove the last resort to the party which fails to gain majority by a narrow margin," remarked political analyst Dr RK Verma.

Re-polling in 6 Manipur stations

Guwahati: The EC has ordered re-polling in six polling stations of Manipur's Ukhrul and Senapati districts on March 8 as it declared polling held at the stations on March 5 as void. Incidents of poll-related violence were reported on March 5 during the last phase of election in 22 seats. Snatching of EVMs and other irregularities were reported from Ukhrul and Senapati which are Naga-majority districts. In Karong constituency, one person was killed when the security personnel opened fire on a mob.

Will decide on post-poll alliance with SP based on circumstances: Priyanka

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Jaipur

NOT ruling out the possibility of a post-poll alliance with the Samajwadi Party in Uttar Pradesh, Congress national general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Monday said a decision in this regard will be taken "based on the circumstances".

Speaking to media persons at Jaipur airport, Vadra expressed hope that the voters of the Hindi heartland state "took the right decision" while exercising their franchise.

Notably, she did not rule out the possibility of forming a post-poll alliance with the Samajwadi Party. "Decision will be taken based on the circumstances that arise. First, let the results come," she said.

When asked whether the newly elected MLAs would be taken to Rajasthan to prevent horse-trading, Priyanka said: "It is a question of the future. The conditions will be known only after the results are out."

Chief Minister Ashok Gehlot, Rajasthan PCC chief Govind Singh Dotasara and Gujarat in-charge Raghu Sharma were present at the airport to receive her.

According to sources, Vadra will have a long discussion with Gehlot on the strategy before the results of the Assembly elections in five states are announced on March 10. The Congress leader is scheduled to return to Lucknow on Tuesday.

Vijayvargiya's visit triggers talks of 'Plan B' in Uttarakhand

VINEET UPADHAY @ Dehradun

WITH BJP leader Kailash Vijayvargiya arriving in Dehradun on Sunday, political analysts in the hill state are suspecting that the saffron camp is working on a backup plan to form government in case of a hung verdict.

The BJP general secretary, also known as 'political spin doctor', met the state's top party leaders including Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami and former CM Ramesh Pokhriyal Nishank.

"The discussions are said to be centred around the strategy to deal with a situation if the party fails to reach the magic figure of 36 in the 70-strong Assembly," said a party source.

As the BJP is on an all-out offensive mode, the Congress has decided to take a strategic retreat and may transfer its newly elected MLAs to a safer location where the party has its government, most preferably Rajasthan.

"We are prepared to counter any vicious plan by the BJP. The BJP and its leaders are known to play dirty but they will be disappointed this time. We are ready to tackle them," said Ganesh Godiyal, state Congress president.

Battle for UP concludes, all eyes on counting day

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

AROUND 57 per cent voter turnout was recorded in the seventh and last phase of the Uttar Pradesh Assembly elections for 54 seats spread across nine districts of Purvanchal on Monday.

Voting commenced at 7 am in the nine districts — Chandauli, Varanasi, Jaunpur, Azamgarh, Mirzapur, Mau, Bhadohi, Ghazipur and Sonbhadra. Voting ended at 4 pm in three constituencies — Chakia (Chandauli), Robertsganj and Duddhi (Sonbhadra). In the rest of the segments, it ended at 6 pm. The final voting percentage will be released by Election Commission on Tuesday.

As per figures of the last Assembly elections, voting percentage of 2017 was slightly higher at 59.56 per cent.

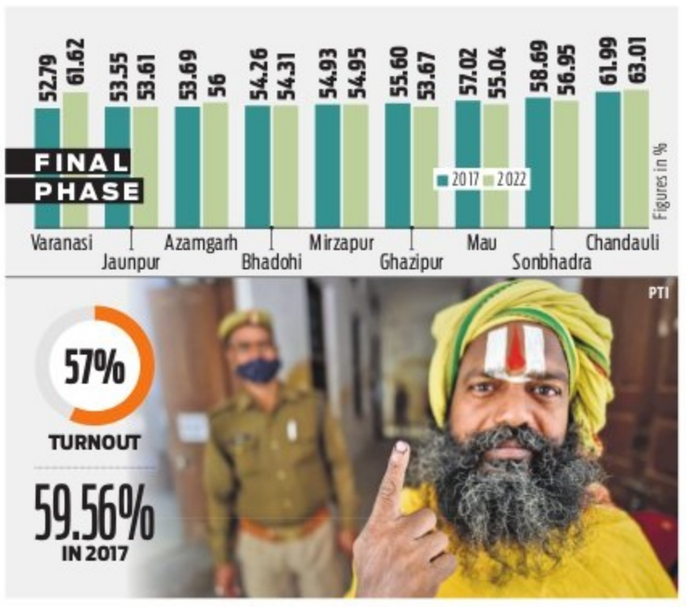
This time, Azamgarh witnessed 53.69 per cent voting, Bhadohi 54.26 per cent, Chandauli 61.99 per cent, Ghazipur 55.60 per cent, Jaunpur 53.55 per cent, Mau 57.02 per cent, Mirzapur 54.93 per cent, Sonbhadra 58.69 per cent and Varanasi 52.79 per cent.

While Chandauli recorded the highest turnout of 59.59 per cent, Azamgarh remained at the bottom with 52.34 per cent. Even in Varanasi, which is PM Narendra Modi's parliamentary constituency and considered to be his stronghold, registered a low turnout of 52.79 per cent. In 2017, Varanasi has recorded 61.62 per cent, while Chanduali had registered 63.01 per cent. Even in 2017, Azamgarh was at the bottom with 56 per cent turnout. Meanwhile, other seats including Bhadohi saw 54.31 per cent voting, Ghazipur 53,67 per cent, Jaunpur 53.61 per cent, Mau 55.04 per cent, Mirzapur 54.95 per cent and Sonbhadra 56.95 per cent.

The bigwigs in fray in the last leg included Suheldev Bharatiya, Samaj Party president Om Prakash Rajbhar, several ministers of Yogi cabinet and BJP turncoat Dara Singh Chauhan from Ghosi seat in Mau. Chauhan had resigned from the cabinet and joined SP with Swami Prasad Maurya.

613 candidates in contest for 54 seats

A total of 613 candidates were in the fray for the 54 seats and their fate was sealed by 2.05 crore voters. Mafia don-turned-politician Mukhtar Ansari's son Abbas Ansari was in fray from Mau Sadar. State Tourism Minister Neelkanth Tiwari contested from Varanasi South



Big birthday event for Raje today, seen as show of strength ahead of election

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

THE followers of former Rajasthan chief minister Vasundhara Raje will celebrate her birthday on March 8 in a grand style which is being seen as a major show of strength among the political circles.

Coinciding with International Women's Day, the event is also being construed as the launch of poll preparations by the BJP's Raje camp. Rajasthan is going to polls next year.

In the midst of preparation for birthday celebrations, two audio clips have gone viral on social media in which the party's infighting has come to the fore yet again. BJP's Bundi district president Chitarmal Rana and local MLA Ashok Dogra are reportedly heard asking a local worker to distance from Raje's Dev Darshan Yatra as it is not a party programme.

Nevertheless, former ministers Babulal Verma, Rajpal Singh Shekhawat, Yunus Khan, Bhavani Singh Rajawat, former state president Ashok Parnami and former MLA Prahlad Gunjal are among the senior leaders preparing to celebrate the event at Keshavarai temple in Keshavraipatan, Bundi as part of the Dev Darshan Yatra. The district BJP unit, however, has distanced itself from the programme.

According to BJP insiders, the target of gathering a crowd of one lakh people was set to Raje supporters for the birthday programme. All participating MLAs, former MLAs, close leaders were asked to mobilise a crowd of at least 2,000-3,000 people.

In the Rajasthan political circles, the turf fight between Raje and the party's state president Satish Poonia, who heads the RSS faction, is a well-known fact. The Raje camp claims that the BJP can come to power only if the next election is fought under the leadership of Raje.

Rift in Bengal BJP widening as MP meets dissident leaders

PRANAB MONDAL @ Kolkata

CRACKS within the BJP's Bengal chapter are getting wider since its poor show in the recent civic polls. The latest development was party state general secretary and Hooghly MP Locket Chatterjee on Monday meeting two dissidents — former vice-presidents Jay Prakash Majumdar and Ritesh Tiwari. This comes two days after Chatterjee raised the issue of "introspection" in last Saturday's meeting, which was convened to analyse the reason behind the debacle.

Chatterjee had said the party should conduct self-assessment for the rout in the civic polls. She also alleged that instead of competent faces, candidates of the state leadership's choice were given berths in the state hierarchy.

She soon received flak from the national leadership. BJP national general secretary Dilip Ghosh said, "If someone shrugs off responsibility and pass the buck to others, it is not introspection. Introspection is to assess whether I have done the job on my part."

Though the Hooghly MP didn't disclose her discontent in public, she has not been visible at any public activities of the party since her defeat in the last year's Assembly elections. Her demand for introspection and its criticism by Ghosh are considered a duel between the BJP functionaries and the dissidents.

Chatterjee on Monday met Majumdar, Tiwari and other disgruntled party leaders, including Raju Banerjee and Sayantan Basu, at an undisclosed location and it triggered speculation of widening rift in the saffron camp's Bengal chapter.

In Saturday's introspection meeting, Chatterjee had said instead of focusing on the ruling TMC's terror, the saffron party should find out the real reason behind the setback.

Another ceasefire but battles continue

Ukraine dismisses Moscow offer for humanitarian corridors that would lead refugees into Russia, Belarus

LVIV

RUSSIA announced yet another limited ceasefire and the establishment of safe corridors to allow civilians to flee some besieged Ukrainian cities on Monday. But the evacuation routes led mostly to Russia and its ally Belarus, drawing withering criticism from Ukraine and others.

Ukrainian officials accused Moscow of resorting to "medieval siege" tactics in places, and in one of the most desperate of the encircled cities, the southern port of Mariupol, there were no immediate signs of an evacuation.

Ukrainian Deputy Prime Minister Irina Vereshchuk blasted the latest ceasefire proposal, calling it "unacceptable". French President Emmanuel Macron also dismissed the plan as a cynical move by Moscow. "I don't know many Ukrainians who want to seek refuge in Russia. That's hypocrisy," he said in an interview on French news broadcaster LCI.

The Ukrainian government instead proposed eight routes allowing civilians to travel to western regions of Ukraine where there is no shelling.

Russian President Vladimir Putin's forces continued to pummel some cities with rockets even after the announcement of corridors, and fierce fighting raged in places, indicating there would be no wider cessation of hostilities.

Evacuees cross a destroyed bridge as they flee the city of Irpin, northwest of Kyiv, on Monday

Efforts to set up safe passage for civilians over the weekend fell apart amid continued shelling.

But the Russian Defence Ministry announced a new push on Monday, saying civilians would be allowed to leave the capital of Kyiv, Mariupol and the cities of Kharkiv and Sumy.

The two sides met for a third round of talks on Monday, according to Russian state media, though hopes for any breakthrough were dim. The countries' foreign ministers are also scheduled to meet in Turkey on Thursday, according to that country's top diplomat.

Ukrainians, whose ferocious resistance has slowed the invasion and thwarted any hopes Moscow had for a lightning victory, have been reinforcing cities across the country.

In Kyiv, soldiers and volunteers have built hundreds of checkpoints, often using sandbags, stacked tires and spiked cables. "Every house, every street, every checkpoint, we will fight to the death if necessary," said Mayor Vitali Klitschko.

In Mariupol, where an estimated 200,000 people hoping to flee were becoming increasingly desperate, Red Cross officials waited to hear when a safe corridor would be established. The city is short on water, food and power, and cellphone networks are down.

Stores have been looted as residents search for essential goods. Hospitals in Mariupol are facing desperate shortages of antibiotics and painkillers, and doctors performed some emergency procedures without them.

The battle for Mariupol is crucial because its capture could allow Moscow to establish a land corridor to Crimea, which Russia seized from Ukraine in 2014. AP

Lanka's most sacred elephant dies, body to be kept as national treasure

COLOMBO

SRI Lanka's most sacred elephant passed away aged 68 on Monday, prompting an outpouring of grief and a presidential order for the huge cadaver to be stuffed and preserved for posterity.

Nadungamuwa Raja was the most important among 100 elephants used in an annual pageant involving fire-eaters and drummers, tasked with carrying a golden casket of Buddhist relics on its back.

On Monday, a procession of mourners — including schoolchildren, priests in saffron robes and an elderly lady with a Zimmer frame — paid their respects to Raja, praying and touching its mighty tusks in reverence.

President Gotabaya Rajapaksa decreed that the animal be declared a "national treasure" and ordered its remains be preserved "for future generations to witness," his office said. Raja was due to be handed over to taxidermists later on Monday for stuffing after Buddhist funeral rites have been performed, the owner of the elephant said through a spokesperson.

Decked out in lights, Raja carried the casket of relics at the annual Esala Perahera pageant, a major tourist draw in the central city of Kandy — performing the role most years from 2006 to 2021. AFP

THE Indian benchmark Nifty closed at a seven-month low, weighed by FII selling amid several commodities such as crude surging to multi-year highs as a fall-out from the Ukraine conflict. The FII selling and the overnight rise in crude price by as much as 18% intraday pushed the rupee down to a record low of 77.09.

FIIs sold shares worth a provisional ₹7,482 crore, while DIIs purchased stocks worth a provisional ₹5,331 crore, enabling the frontline indices to pare some losses. The Nifty closed down 2.3% or 382 points at 15863.15 while the Sensex ended lower 2.7% at 52,842.75. Investors saw their wealth being eroded by ₹5.6 lakh crore.

The FII selling has caused the Nifty and Sensex to trade around 15% each below their record highs of October last year. FIIs have sold shares worth ₹1.29 lakh crore in the fiscal year so far, including Monday's provisional figure. That's the highest in any fiscal year since FY1993 when they were allowed to trade in Indian stocks.

Though the frontline indices are in correction territory, having fallen 15% from their record highs, the Nifty Midcap 100 closed 19.18% below its record high and is just shy of entering a bear market, which happens when a share or index trades 20% or lower from its record high.

The Nifty Smallcap 100 is in a bear market, having fallen 20.7% off its record high at closing Monday. This indicates that broader markets have fallen more than the frontline stocks, causing a huge loss to retail investors, among others.

Nirmal Jain, founder and chairman of IIFL group, advises those invested in fundamentally strong stocks to hold their positions and to "stay light" as long as the Ukraine conflict "drags on".

"This isn't the time to add, yet, given that the conflict doesn't look like getting resolved soon," said Jain.

The rupee hit a fresh low of 77.09 to the USD before closing down 80 paise at 76.96. The fall in the rupee pushed gold up to ₹53,380 per 10 gm, just ₹2,800 below the record high of ₹56,200 in August 2020, said Surendra Mehta, national secretary, IBJA. "The rupee has been buffeted by high crude prices and sustained FII selling," said Rajesh Palviya, technical head at Axis Securities.

"As long as oil stays above $110-115 and FII selling continues the rupee will stay under pressure," forcasts Hormuz Maloo, director, AFco Investments.

Fuel prices touch $139 per barrel, highest in 14 years

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

AS the US and European countries are mulling to ban Russian Oil imports, the Brent Crude Oil on Monday touched $139.13 per barrel for a brief period.

The Brent crude was trading at $139.13 while the West Texas Intermediate (WTI) hit $130.50 on Monday . The price has been on rise ever since Russia started military operation in Ukraine on 24 February, and it rose around 33% per barrel. Experts believe the price is going to hike further and may soon breach the all-time low level reached in 2008 due to economic depression. The all-time high of $147.50 per barrel crude price was reported in July 2008.

At home, the hike in international price is going to widen the current account deficit and may widen by $14-15 billion (0.4% of GDP) for every $10/bbl rise in the average price of the Indian crude basket. As per a rating agency ICRA, if the price averages $130/bbl in FY2023, then the current deficit will widen to 3.2% of GDP, crossing 3% for the first time in a decade.

"We expect the Indian current account deficit to widen to 3.2% of GDP in FY2023 if the crude oil price averages $130/bbl, crossing 3% for the first time in a decade. We expect the $-₹ cross rate to trade in a range of 76.0-79.0/$ until the conflict subsides. Moreover, the 10-year G-sec yield is likely to range between 7.0-7.4% in H1 FY2023, with the looming increase in supply," said a report by ICRA.

Chitra Ramkrishna sent to 7-day CBI remand

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR
@ New Delhi

THE Central Bureau of Investigation got a week of custodial remand of ex-CEO of National Stock Exchange Chitra Ramkrishna from the Special Court (CBI Cases) in New Delhi on Monday in connection with the ongoing probe into the NSE co-location scam case.

After she reportedly evaded answers to maximum number of questions of CBI, the CBI took her into custody late on Sunday night from a location in New Delhi and produced before the Special court CBI Cases at Rouse Avenue Court.

Counsels of both the CBI and Chitra argued before the court after that special court granted custodial remand of Chitra for a week to the CBI for further questioning. In fact, the CBI had sought a 14-day-remand of Chitra Ramkrishna from the competent court putting many reasons, including one that she evaded answers to many questions during the last few days of questioning in Delhi.

Meanwhile, sources said that Chitra Ramkrishna after being taken into custody finally by the CBI, requested for a copy of the Bhagvad Gita for perhaps getting spiritual solace amid hectic questioning. She also drank many glasses of water throughout the questioning and appeared to be at her wits, end when she was confronted with bunches of evidences, including pages of her emails sent and received between the Himalayan Yogi and others.

As a highly placed source shared, Chitra Ramkrishna upon being confronted with former Group Operating Officer of the NSE and her aide Anand Subramanian by the CBI, categorically refused to know him.

The CBI, probing into this NSE market manipulation scam since 2018, has managed to procure details of more than 2500 emails sent and received by Chitra between 2013 and 2016 in which a good number of email contents are of those done between Chitra Ramkrishna and the Himalayan Yogi. "The agency is going into this case very scientifically, psychologically and circumstantially to probe the matter with conclusive evidences which may take the accused to conviction by the special court," said a source.

2 firms file for IPO to raise funds amid market crash

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU

AMID market crash, two firms have filed papers with capital market regulator SEBI to raise funds. Mumbai based Suraj Estate Developers has filed preliminary papers with SEBI to rake in ₹500 crore through an initial public offering (IPO) while Noida based India Exposition Mart, a leading integrated exhibitions and conventions venue, has filed a preliminary prospectus with the regulator to raise ₹600 crore via IPO.

According to the draft red herring prospectus (DRHP) filed by Suraj Estate Developers, the funds will be raised through fresh issuance of equity shares. It said that the funds to the tune of ₹315 crore will be used for payment of the borrowings of the company and its subsidiaries — Accord Estates, Iconic Property Developers and Skyline Realty. Around ₹45 crore will be utilised for acquisition of land or land development rights, besides, money will be used for general corporate purposes. At present, the promoter and promoter group holds around 95% stake in the company. Centrum Capital and Anand Rathi Advisors are the book running leads managers to the issue.

India Exposition Mart's initial share sale comprises a fresh issue of ₹450 crore and an offer-for-sale (OFS) of 1.12 crore equity shares by selling shareholders. Those offering shares in the OFS include Vectra Investments, MIL Vehicles & Technologies, Overseas Carpets, RS Computech, Navratan Samdaria, Dinesh Kumar Aggarwal and Pankaj Garg. The firm does not have any promoter as all shareholders are under the 'public category'.

As per sources, the company may consider a private placement of equity shares aggregating up to ₹75 crore. If such pre-IPO placement is undertaken, the fresh issue size will be reduced. The filings by the two firms come at a time when the global equity market is witnessing a major crash.

Women in the CEO/MD roles rise 55% in 2022

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

THE representation of women across Indian firms has been increasing steadily. Women in chief executive officer or managing director roles have grown to 55% in 2022, compared to just 7% in 2017. A survey by Grant Thornton Bharat reveals while the global average is 32% inclusion of women in senior management roles, it is 38% women representation in Indian companies, and the country stands at No. 7 position globally.

However, the percentage of women is still not at par with men for senior management roles. About 38% businesses did not have any woman in senior management in 2017, but in 2022, this percentage has come down to 3%.

"With a substantially higher number of women taking up leadership roles in the Indian mid-market companies, this trend will lead to further gender parity," said Vishesh C Chandiok, CEO, Grant Thornton Bharat. More than 90% respondents say that new working practices such as flexibility are benefitting women's career trajectories in the long-term.

"The increase in businesses which have women in senior management is a proof that this is no longer an option but an eventuality," said Kalpana B, CEO and Chief Thinker, Grant Thornton dGTL.

Sebi chides Dish TV for withholding AGM outcome

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

CAPITAL market regulator Securities and Exchange Board of India (SEBI) has come down heavily on the management and directors of Dish TV for not disclosing the outcomes of annual general meeting (AGM) held on 30 December 2021, and ordered it to disclose the voting results on stock exchanges within 24 hours.

The market regulator said in its order on Monday that the company has shown blatant disrespect for the law by not disclosing the outcome of the AGM. It also snubbed the independent directors of the company for their failure in ensuring that the company implemented best corporate governance practices and safeguarded the interest of all stakeholders.

Sebi also ordered a freeze of demat accounts of the directors and the compliance officer of the company till the time the voting results of the AGM held on December 30, 2021 are disclosed on the stock exchanges or till further orders, whichever is earlier.

The Sebi order came after Yes Bank had filed a complaint against Dish TV alleging that the latter had wrongfully withheld the results of voting on various proposals put forth in its Annual General Meeting held on 30 December 2021. Later IndusInd Bank also moved Sebi requesting it to direct the company to disclose the voting results of the AGM.

MG Motor launches ZS EV facelift

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

MG Motor on Monday launched the facelift of its electric passenger vehicle ZS EV as it looks to increase its share in this nascent but fast growing segment. The new ZS EV will be available in 2 variants (Excite & Exclusive) and is priced ₹21,99,800 and ₹25,88,000, respectively. While the bookings for exclusive variant starts now, bookings for Excite variant will start from July 2022.

MG claims the new ZS EV comes with the largest in-segment 50.3 kWh battery, offering a 461 km certified range in a single charge which is 42 km more than the 419 km range of the previous battery pack.

The British brand expects 25% of its total volumes to come from EV sales by next year as the carmaker is planning to launch a new EV in the first quarter of the next year. MG is also planning to introduce the facelift of its best selling SUV Hector this year.

The new ZS EV will be available in 2 variants (Excite & Exclusive) | EXPRESS

At present, MG Motor is the second top seller of EVs with only one model. However, its sales are nowhere near that of Tata Motors, which single handedly is dominating this space. In the month of February 2022, Tata Motors sold a total of 2,264 EVs, 550% month-on-month, as against 38 EVs sold by MG Motor, according to data issued by FADA. Rajeev Chaba, President & Managing Director, MG Motor India, said, "The demand for ZS EV has been encouraging since its launch, and the all-new ZS EV will further strengthen the brand connect with our EV customers...We are confident to change the mindset and accelerate EV adoption in India."

'Warne died of natural causes'

AP @Bangkok

POLICE in Thailand said on Monday that an autopsy conducted on Australian cricket star Shane Warne has concluded that he died of natural causes, ruling out foul play.

A police statement said the opinion issued by the doctor who carried out the autopsy has been conveyed to Warne's family and the Australian Embassy. It said the family did not have any doubt that the cricketer, widely considered one of the sport's greatest spin bowlers, died of natural causes. A senior police officer explained the findings at a news conference held after the statement was issued. 'There are no reports of missing items. There were no signs of a struggle," said Assistant Police Commissioner General Gen. Surachate Hakparn. "The director of the hospital said from the autopsy that he died of natural causes."

India shooters top table

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

FOUR gold, two silver and one bronze.

It seems like some of the Indian shooters are purring again. Taking part in their first World Cup since the Tokyo Olympics debacle, shooters from the country were regular podium climbers in Cairo. On Monday, the final day of the competition, it was the combination of Rhythm Sangwan and Anish Bhanwala who stepped up to cap off a good week or so for the Indian contingent.

The youngsters were too strong for their rivals (Chawisa Paduka and Ram Khamaeng of Thailand) in the gold medal match.

With a tally of seven medals, India finished on top of the medal standings ahead of Norway and France, who ended up second and third, respectively. However, that table does not reveal the entire story. Out of seven medals, six were won by pistol shooters. Saurabh Chaudhary continues to be a high-performer. Esha Singh showed she can thrive at the elite level, winning an individual silver and two team gold medals. Anish and Rhythm also won two medals each.

While the pistol contingent thrived, rifle shooters could only manage a bronze medal (an under par outcome given their high ambitions).

It should also be noted that some of the elite shooters from countries like China, Russia (banned after a day or two into the competition) were missing. Shooters from China and Russia accounted for 19 medals in the Tokyo Olympics.

The fact pistol shooters thrived despite the absence of Manu Bhaker, an outstanding performer in the discipline for India in recent years, is a good sign going forward. That only shows India's bench strength.

Rifle shooters, on the other hand, will have plenty to mull. Shreya Agrawal was unlucky during the qualification stage of the women's 10m air rifle event. Former World No 1 Divyansh Singh Panwar finished a lowly 25th in the men's event.

Given the event was being held under new format and also include the fact that the shooters have barely had proper training (aside from the national camp that was held just before the event), it will be harsh to make a judgment on them.

Automatic start system for nat'l canoe sprints

FIROZ MIRZA @Chennai

AUTOMATIC start system will be used for the first time in the country for this water sport national championship. The made-in-India system was developed by the research and development wing of the Indian Kayaking and Canoeing Association (IKCA) with the help of engineers. The system will be used in the 32nd National Canoe Sprint Championship for senior and junior (men and women) slated from March 10-13 at the Lower Lake, Bhopal (Madhya Pradesh).

"The system will help in obtaining a perfect alignment of the bows of the boats on the imaginary starting line. In the competition, eight gates will stop and align the boats across eight lanes. A bar fixed to the submerged part of each gate will block the bow, which in turn will help in holding the boat at the starting position," said Prashant Kushwaha, secretary-general of the IKCA.

Earlier, in absence of the automatic system, the boats were held on the jetty by ropes making it difficult to obtain a perfect alignment. Besides, the automatic system is widely used in international competitions but the lack of it in the domestic circuit meant the Indian participants hardly got used to it.

Prabhsukhan's rise and rise as India keeper

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

PLAYING second fiddle is never easy and 21-year-old Prabhsukhan Gill knows that feeling all too well. A few years ago, the young goalkeeper was identified as one of the finest talents in the country after he was included in the 21-man squad as part of the 2017 FIFA U-17 World Cup.

Throughout that campaign, Gill had to warm the bench as Dheeraj Singh was the undisputed first-choice goalkeeper. At club level, he was again Dheeraj's understudy at Indian Arrows which was the developmental project of the All India Football Federation (AIFF). The squad which played at the World Cup competed in the I-League, but Gill rarely got a look in because of Dheeraj.

After Dheeraj made the switch to the Indian Super League (ISL), Gill became first-choice at Indian Arrows. However, when it was time for the Ludhiana lad to make the big switch, he moved to Bengaluru FC where he was again the second choice behind India international Gurpreet Singh Sandhu. A move to Blasters in 2020 didn't provide immediate opportunities as Albino Gomes remained the side's first-choice goalkeeper. However, this season has been a completely different story as Gill has broken through and even overshadowed the country's other top goalkeepers. With six clean sheets to his name and conceding the joint fewest goals in the league, Gill has made everyone sit up and take notice and could walk away with the Golden Glove award as well. His match-winning performances this season earned him a call-up to Indian senior team's preliminary camp for the first time.

LIVERPOOL VS INTER

ALL TO PLAY FOR

LIVERPOOL LEAD 2-0 AFTER 1ST LEG

Liverpool are in firm control and playing at Anfield would be an added bonus for the English giants. But Jurgen Klopp's men cannot afford to take the second leg lightly. Despite losing at home, Inter, second in Serie A, did show that they have the potential to hurt the Reds. Mo Salah, after drawing a blank in Liverpool's hard-fought win over West Ham in the EPL, will be eager to get back amongst goals and lead the team in the attacking front. From Inter's perspective, Edin Dzeko and Lautaro Martinez, who inspired the team during their recent domestic fixture against Salernitana, will be looking to exploit Liverpool's high backline. With nothing to lose, Inter could make life difficult for the home side.

26 The last time Liverpool tasted defeat was Nov 7 (lost 2-3 against West Ham in PL). Reds are on a 26-match unbeaten run since.

BAYERN VS RB SALZBURG

1-1 AFTER OPENING LEG

Salzburg warmed up for the return in Munich with a comfortable 4-0 win at SCR Altach while Bayern were held 1-1 by Bayer Leverkusen in Bundesliga after a miscommunication between Thomas Muller and keeper Sven Ulreich which led to an own goal (Muller's first own goal in Bayern career). They dominated the second-half but could not create clear-cut chances with Robert Lewandowski missing a good chance 10 minutes from time. Lewandowski will be keen to keep transfer speculations aside and find his scoring touch. Bayern struggled with the Austrian team's pace in the first leg before Kingsley Coman rescued a draw for the Bavarians in the last minute.

Shriya Saran to play queen in Kabza

PG 4

DAY'S DIARY

CD prototype

On March 8, 1979, a prototype of the compact disc (CD) digital audio system was presented at Philips in the Netherlands, to a group of journalists

DEMONSTRATION

A seven-person project group was formed to develop an optical audio disc. It was presented and demonstrated by JP Sinjou, head of compact disc laboratory of Philips' main industry group, Audio

A FAIRY TALE CONNECT

Since the prototype CD-player had small dimensions, the engineers named it 'Pinkeltje' after a tiny dwarf who plays the central role in a Dutch fairy tale book

COLLABORATION

Prototypes were developed by Philips and Sony independently. They then collaborated to produce a standard format and related player technology

FAMILY AND FRIENDS

Ma'am at work and mom at home... Snehal Mantri and Kamakshi Mantri, the mother-in-law and daughter-in-law duo behind Mantri Developers may be like chalk and cheese, but have found common ground in many interests. On Women's Day, CE catches up with them

MONIKA MONALISA

AT 9am sharp, Snehal and Kamakshi Mantri "punch in" their attendance at the Mantri Developers office on Vittal Mallya Road. As co-founder, and head of marketing, respectively, the two get engrossed in the daily grind until 6pm when they return home. There's little to show that the two share a different equation after hours as mother-in-law and daughter-in-law. It's been three years that Kamakshi married into the Mantri household, and is easily able to switch between calling her mother-in-law 'Mom' and 'Ma'am' depending on the discussion. "Sometimes at work I forget she is my mother- in-law," says 30-year-old Kamakshi with a laugh.

A friendly chat with both the ladies who share the same surname, and it's easy to confuse them as friends catching up after a while. "We have many common interests, especially buying home decor and attending events together," says Kamakshi, adding that she nudges Snehal to step out even if it sometimes means "bribing" her with some goodies. "The inside joke is that I spend more time with Mom than with my husband, Pratik," says Kamakshi. And the room is filled with peals of laughter.

It might sound like a picture perfect relationship but the duo admits that there are times that differences crop up. But before matters go out of hand, the two sort it out amicably. "Kamakshi comes from a different house, so obviously there are bound to be differences. But we manage it with understanding. We chat it out then and there in case of a misunderstanding to ensure it doesn't go any further," says Snehal (58).

Ask Kamakshi what that one aspect she looks up to in Snehal is, and pat comes the reply. "Back in the day, it was very rare to find Marwari women going out to work or even getting involved in the family business. But that's different with Mom. I have truly learnt the art of multitasking from her," says Kamakshi, while Snehal smiles awkwardly. Snehal too is generous with praise about daughter-in-law. Usually busy with her work, Snehal, who hardly gets time to enter the kitchen, says she was impressed with Kamakshi's culinary skills and loved her Vietnamese rolls prepared during the lockdown. "She is otherwise not fond of those rolls, but likes the way I make them," says Kamakshi.

Snehal is completely in awe of the way Kamakshi has managed the family business. "Working with Kamakshi is a wonderful experience. She is up to date with the latest technology and I have experience... so we're able to capitalise on our strengths. It's only after 6pm that we switch on our emotional side," says Snehal.

Kamakshi, who did her masters in management from London Business School, says she is still learning the tricks of the trades from Snehal. "Obviously she has been in the industry far longer than I have. So she knows how the corporate world works, while I bring in the startup element," says Kamakshi, who joined the company as a manager before climbing up to the top position.

Initially, she did face criticism about getting everything all too easy. "Women in general face that, irrespective of the industry. It's a family business and I got things easy but now that I have been in the industry for around three years, I will let my work do the talking," she affirms. And Snehal nods in agreement.

An Odissi dancer and a student of Tai Chi, Dr Swati Pai practices all this along with medicine

DOCTOR'S PRESCRIPTION

SANATH PRASAD

IT was Doctor's Day on July 1, 2020, and Dr Swati Pai was just about to celebrate her work anniversary. But the timing was so unfortunate that she was infected with Covid-19 on the same day and was hospitalised. What followed was 14 days of quarantine but Pai ensured she kept herself pre-occupied. Not with music or shows, but by practising Tai Chi, a Chinese martial art form.

Pai, who is consultant – hematopathologist, Manipal Hospital, Old Airport Road, is a woman of multiple interests. Although medicine came early into her life, her passion for Odissi and playing the sitar are boundless. In fact, she also pursued MD in pathology, to find time to pursue her interest in Odissi. "When I was working in Mumbai, I was held up with intense medical work and did not find time to pursue dance. It was when I moved to Bengaluru in 1999 that opportunities started opening up for me. From learning Odissi to playing the sitar and learning German and Tai Chi, the city fulfilled most of my interests," says Pai, who is training for Odissi under her guru Sharmila Mukerjee.

The 54-year-old was very keen on taking her passion into competitive stages. But it came with its own compromises and challenges, considering the nature of her work. However, when she is caught up with a dilemma of choosing between art and medical emergencies, she ensures the latter is first attended to. "I was sure of pursuing pathology because it gave me time to work on my interests. Sometimes, my dance teachers have actually rejected me from performing in programmes because I did not turn up for rehearsals. The auditing work of the hospital falls on weekends which collides with my Odissi training classes. Such times, I usually get engaged in medical work," says Pai, who practices sitar and Tai Chi early in the morning.

AFTER HOURS

Dr Swati Pai during a performance

Pai describes Tai Chi as 'meditation in motion'. She took up the martial art to work on balancing her roles as a doctor, dancer and an instrument player. Pai trains for Tai Chi under Sifu George Thomas at the Tai Chi Academy of India. She refrained from practising the self-defence aspect of the martial art and instead focused on completing the '85-form Yang style'. "I took up Tai Chi to control my mind, meditate and enhance my breathing. It is giving me the right balance to supplement my day-to-day work as a doctor, dancer and also as a mother," says Pai. Interestingly, Pai also uses the art forms as a medium to seek spirituality. "I am not a religious person. I believe in seeking divinity and spirituality through my dance, music and also by practising medicine. The different art forms have taught me to be disciplined, composed and graceful. I might retire from medicine, but not from my art forms," says Pai. Some of her notable dance performances include Uday Shankar Dance Festival in Jaipur, a solo performance in Puri, Odisha , Sri Brahmotsava festival, local dance festivals in Bengaluru during Durga Puja, Ganesh Chathurti and Maha Shivartri.

> When I was working in Mumbai, I was held up with intense medical work and did not find time to pursue dance. It was only when I moved to Bengaluru in 1999 that I got the breakthrough – Dr Swati Pai

FIT BIT

UTTHITA VAYU MUKTASANA

(STANDING WIND RELIEVING POSE)

This is an intermediate twisted asana. It is a challenging pose because it intensely engages the whole body. This pose helps to release all waste and toxins from your digestive tract. It is recommended to practice this pose every morning. A healthy colon is the foundation for total body health. When your digestive tract is clogged with toxins, it creates room for bacteria and viruses. Modern lifestyle and poor eating habits damage your digestive tract and increase the risk of developing many illnesses. Hence, this is considered as a very good asana for those with such lifestyles. This should be preceded or followed by Gomukhasana, Bhujangasana, Chakrasana, and Dhanurasana.

STEPS

- Stand straight, with the heels and toes pressed together like in Tadasana (Mountain Pose).
- Keep your arms by your side, weight distributed evenly across your feet from your heels to toes.
- Exhale and raise your right leg.
- Bend your knee and bring it closer to your chest. Clasp your hands around your knee and hug your knee to your chest.
- Stay in this pose for three long breaths.
- Exhale and touch your nose to your knee.
- Stay in this pose for three long breaths.
- To come out of this pose, first release your leg and stand in Tadasana.
- Repeat the sequence on your left side for the same amount of time.
- You can eventually increase the length of time you hold the pose.

BENEFITS

- Helps improve the digestive system.
- Helps strengthen the abdominal muscles.
- Helpful to massage the internal organs.
- Improves blood circulation.
- Regular practice helps to relieve tension in the lower back.
- This asana is useful to stimulate the reproductive organs.
- Also helps in burning belly fat.
- Strengthens the back muscles and tones the muscles of the arms.
- Helps strengthen and tone the legs.
- Spiritually, it is associated with Swadhisthana (Sacral) Chakra.

LIMITATIONS

- People who are suffering from severe back, neck or leg injuries should avoid this asana.
- Students who have had a recent abdominal surgery, should not practice this asana.
- Women should not practice this asana during pregnancy.

BOWL FULL OF STORIES

Filmmaker and business professional Purandar Chaudhuri's new documentary on Bengaluru explores the food, culture and technology scene of the city

SANATH PRASAD

To me, Bengaluru actually represents India. You can easily define a Delhite or a Mumbaikar, but you can never define a Bengalurean

Purandar Chaudhuri, independent filmmaker

THE flower market, a plate consisting of idli and vadae, a hub for startups — yes, of course, we are talking about namma Bengaluru.

In fact, to take it a step further, Purandar Chaudhuri, president of food and beverages department at Cafe Coffee Day, India, is now working on a documentary series called Life in a Bowl, which will feature different cities of India and their culinary and cultural landscapes.

He started the series with Kolkata, his hometown, and is now gearing up to present the story about Bengaluru.

Chaudhuri, who has extensively worked in the food industry, wants to use 'bowl' as a symbolic aspect to explain new dimensions of life.

"I started working on this documentary series in 2021. As a creative person, I wanted to express and explore life in a new dimension. Since I have worked significantly in the food and beverage industry, I wanted to connect different aspects of life with food as a main narrative. I wanted to start with the place I grew up in, Kolkata, and now I'm focusing on Bengaluru, where I have worked for a significant part of my life," says Chaudhuri, who plans to extend the documentary series to cities like Jodhpur, Amritsar, Kochi, and the North Eastern cities.

Picture for representation purpose

Hosted and narrated by Chiraag Paul, who is a former professional football player, the first episode of Life in a Bowl featuring Kolkata is already out. The documentary showcasing the life and food scene in Kolkata includes the influence of Chinese in Kolkata, a conversation with a poet at Indian Coffee House and much more. This episode has also been screened at international film festivals, including the Tokyo International Short Film Festival 2021, Venice Shorts 2021, New York Tri-State International Film Festival 2021, among others.

"All of us have bowls — from priceless fine-China to a mud-bowl made at a local pottery; every bowl is unique and overflowing with human emotions and stories. We embarked on a journey of exploring some of the most unique food stories from across cities in India where the ingredients are not limited to food but people, culture, history, art and literature," says Chaudhuri, who learnt filmmaking techniques by watching the works of Satyajit Ray, Mrinal Sen and Ritwik Ghatak.

Chaudhuri explains that the Bengaluru episode has all the 'ingredients' that can establish the vibes of a true Bengalurean.

From Koshy's to Ranganna Military Hotel and new-age cloud kitchens, the documentary seeks to explore the multitude of aspects that an everyday Bengalurean experiences.

"To me, Bengaluru actually represents India. You can easily define a Delhite or a Mumbaikar, but you can never define a Bengalurean. This episode will take you through the journey of the city's flower market and the popular food joints that shape the cultural landmarks. It also highlights Forum Three, a theatre group that has been in the city for decades; a piece with Deepti Bopiah, CEO of Go Sports Foundation that supports sporting activities, Naresh Malhotra, senior partner with Sequoia Capital India among others," says the 48-year-old, who is set to release the episode on Bengaluru in April.

LOVE AS INSURANCE

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

ARE relationships insurance policies against loneliness, sickness or old age?

Questions such as "Who will take care of you when you are older?" or "Wouldn't you want someone to bring you a bowl of hot soup when you are sick?" have been put forth as arguments to resolutely single children by despairing families from time immemorial. Other ideas that are often brought into play include the bogey of loneliness in old age, being unattached and therefore not having anything to work for, being single and therefore susceptible to the corruptions of the big, bad world around, the worry that sometime in the future there would be regrets about not having taken the time to make a family for themselves and that it would be too late then to start anything, or the evergreen classic — if you delay things too long, the best candidates will already be off the market when you finally decide to join the circus. These and similar arguments are used to cajole people into some commitment or the other even if there were no major sparks or value alignment between them.

Sure, sometimes, it can and does work. After all, for generations, people have entered into arranged relationships at the behest of family elders and many have had a pretty wonderful time with them, but the question remains — can relationships really protect you from the scourges that loneliness, sickness or old age are projected to be?

There is no denying they are realities. We will certainly die. We will almost certainly have periods of sickness sometime or the other. Many of us will certainly get old and be infirm just because of aging. Quite a lot of us will experience loneliness for some time — some of us might be lonely for much longer than others. These realities exist, and yet can being in a relationship stave off the risk? Not really. Can it make it better? Possibly. Can relationships make it worse? Possibly. There are no guarantees that being in a relationship will ensure care. Statistics show that much of the abuse and suffering people endure are from their closest relatives and loved ones, don't they?

So, should we really buy into the idea that relationships can save us from these?

I suspect the truth is that when people push relationships as a solution, what they are really doing is to take a chance at love. They are only hoping that love will happen in due course, even if it is only a grudging, mean-spirited shadow of love which may not celebrate you but would not want you to suffer — not too much anyway.

The thing is, romantic relationships are just one way of being loved. We can and will experience safety, security and companionship with the love of friends, different kinds of companions, pets and others. Romantic love is great when it is there, but it is not the only answer to worries over loneliness, sickness and death.

Give love a chance. Give all sorts of love that chance.

Because we matter

"SHE smells of her cooking and the perfume Eau d'Hadrien. My mother wore it, too. She used to cook... Our house smelled of garlic and thyme instead of sadness."
— Jennifer Donnelly

My all-time favourite Korean drama Reply 1988 has this bunch of urban moms from different families living in a narrow lane in Seoul, during its famed Olympics year. Known for its realistic portrayal of urban middle class, this series also showcases how these women lived. They exchange food, clean veggies together, drink together, protect their kids fiercely, gossip to the level of scaring their men away and feel happy just to be needed.

I remember we had a little black & white Dianora TV back in 1988. My father, an avid sports fan, replaced it with a Videocon colour TV set just a day before the Olympics started, and half of our mohalla watched it with us. Now, I wonder what it must have been like for my mother, brought up in an urban setup, to live in a drowsy Malnad village, where newspapers and magazines were the only source of knowledge. When the television entered our home in 1986, the primetime news was something my mother made sure we never missed. Our favourite timepass was to imitate news anchors like Rini Simon, Neethi Ravindran, Sarla Maheshwari etc.

Now an urban mom myself, I rue the fact that my daughter could not experience the kind of childhood that I did. We literally grew up in our friends' homes. Once all of us kids ventured out in the morning after a hearty breakfast, we would return only when our mothers started yelling for us during dusk. We would invade the trees in our neighbourhood coffee estates, have our fill of cashew apples, guavas, mangoes, jackfruit, blueberries, chikoos and what not. We would sprint around, jump from one tree to another. All of us girls hated it when the cricket season started because boys would never include us. Today, I was elated to see the Indian women's cricket team doting on Pakistani cricketer Bismah Maroof's baby after their first match. We women have come a long way since we were not expected to play cricket.

The rise of the urban Indian woman has been an unhurried but momentous evolution. From taking part in the Independence movement to claiming room in education, from tadkas and temp jobs to working on space missions, from facing brickbats to thundering for our rights, it has been a hectic but eventful journey. That makes it essential for us to remember, record and reiterate even minute events so that nothing fades out.

The other day, as I was getting scanned at Namma Metro before boarding the train, a woman security guard asked me warmly if I had been working from home last month. Surprised, I looked at her and saw a familiar face. I said yes and asked if she was doing well at work. She smiled and said she did. I guess that is the soundest thing we can do — to acknowledge each other and push other women around us to do better.

SHRIYA SARAN PLAYS QUEEN MADHUMATHI IN R CHANDRU'S KABZAA

A SHARADHAA

DIRECTOR R Chandru has finally decided on a heroine for his upcoming film Kabzaa. The film starring Upendra in the lead is touted to be a pan-Indian film, and the makers have roped in Shriya Sharma for the project. The official announcement was made ahead of Women's Day. The actor will be playing the role of Queen named Madhumathi in the period gangster film set in the 1940s and 80s.

The actor's first-look poster from the film was also unveiled. The film will be made in Kannada, Telugu, and Tamil, and it will be dubbed and released in Malayalam, Hindi, Marathi, and Oriya.

Shriya will meanwhile be seen in SS Rajamouli's upcoming film RRR. Over the years, Shriya has acted alongside renowned actors like superstar Rajinikanth, Nandamuri Balakrishna, and Ajay Devgn. She is no stranger to Sandalwood as well. She has been part of films like Puneeth Rajkumar's Arasu (2006). Her last film in Kannada was Chandra starring Prem, a Kannada-Tamil bilingual.

Kabzaa also stars Jagapathi Babu, Rahul Dev, Kabir Duhan Singh, Danish Akhtar Saifi, Anup Revanna, and Kota Srinivas. Ravi Basrur is composing the music for the film, which has cinematography by A J Shetty.

Kabzaa, which was delayed due to the pandemic, is currently in the last phase of the shooting. Director R Chandru is planning to wrap up the film at one single stretch.

The south Indian actor will be seen alongside Upendra who plays the underworld don; the multilingual gangster-drama also features Sudeep in an important role

'I'VE TRIED TO INCLUDE A FEW TRAITS OF PUNEETH IN MY CHARACTER IN VEDHA'

...says Shivarajkumar, who talks about the Power Star's upcoming film, James, and the challenges of dubbing for the film directed by Chethan Kumar

CE FEATURES

SHIVARAJKUMAR has tried to include a few traits of Puneeth Rajkumar in his 125th film Vedha. The Century Star shared his feeling about his late brother at a press meet for James. "Appu remains in my heart, and I hope to showcase him through my performances. For Vedha, I'm trying to bring the humour traits of Appu in my character, and I hope to succeed," mentions Shivanna.

Shivanna was emotional when talking about dubbing for Puneeth in the Chethan Kumar directorial, which is set to hit the screens on March 17. "Puneeth had a soothing voice, and it was difficult to bring out. I have managed it to an extent."

Delving into the craze around his brother, Shivanna said, "Appu's craze will be there forever, and it will be nice if people don't take advantage of it. He will be an inspiration to many." The actor also asserted that it is painful to see his brother as a statue. "I have even told people not to bring such things to my notice, and not ask me to inaugurate it either. It gets hurtful."

Meanwhile, on the acting front, Shivarajkumar has resumed shooting for director Harsha's Vedha, and is simultaneously taking time to promote his brother's film James.

TV SERIAL ACTORS ARJUN RAMESH AND PRIYANKA CHINCHOLLI TEAM UP FOR KOUTILYA

CE FEATURES

PRABHAKAR Sherkhane's directorial debut film, Koutilya, stars tv serial actors Arjun Ramesh and Priyanka Chincholli, who are making their silver screen debut with the film.

Arjun Ramesh, who played Lord Shiva in popular Kannada daily soap, Shani, plays the lead in the film. On the other hand, Priyanka ChinCholli, known for the TV serial Manasare, is playing the heroine of the film.

Koutilya in Arthashastra is regarded as Chanakya, who is considered a major pillar behind building Chandragupta Maurya's Kingdom. Prabhakar Sherkhane, the film's director, says that he has adapted the period content for the contemporary generation. The director has previously worked with director Suri as an assistant director in Kendasampige and as a co-writer in Kadipuddi.

Koutilya, backed by Vijendra BA, has music scored by Kiran Krishnamurthy and camerawork by Noushad Alam.

The film has passed the Censor Board with a U/A certificate. "We are planning to release the film either in April or May," he says.

On playing the cricketer, Shreyas said: "After 17 years of playing the lead in Iqbal, I feel very fortunate that I am portraying Pravin on screen. "It's an honour to represent Pravin and I will always treasure the time spent with him in preparing for this role which required a new level of dedication and effort from all of us. I hope our audiences not only enjoy the film but are touched and inspired by it," he added.
